ODD FELLOWS PLAN TO SECURE LEASE ON CLUB ROOMS

Large Modern Quarters Will Be Leased in Building at Broadway and Orange

Local Odd Fellows are to have exceptionally fine and modern club rooms in Glendale.

Plans for the new quarters have been completed by the building trustees, C. W. Ingledue, J. M. Banker and Dr. H. C. Smith and this morning $1500 was ready to be put up as a cash guarantee by the lodge.

"The Future Home of Lodge 388, Independent Order of Odd Fellows," is inscribed in immense letters upon an enormous sign to be erected on the site at the northeast corner of Broadway and Orange street as soon as possible.

This is the location of the new building to be erected by the Ralph's Grocery company of Los Angeles the entire second floor of which will be occupied by the I. O. O. F. under a fifteen-year lease.

The building will be of blue brick ornamented with white glazed brick trimmings. There will be wide stairways on both Broadway and Orange street and both entrances will be properly ornamented.

Grocery to Have Corner

The area of the new building will be 10,600 feet. It will have a frontage of 100 feet on Broadway and 106 feet on Orange street.

The corner of the first floor will be occupied by a branch of Ralph's Grocery. This will ocupy 75,000 square feet. It will have open fronts, cement floor and be similar to several large groceries now in operation.

Adjoining the grocery on the east will be one of the entrances to the second floor. On the other side of this will be three store rooms, fourteen feet wide and 106 feet deep, fronting on Broadway. Of course, these will have appropriate show windows. Just who the tenants will be is unknown.

The plans of the second floor, which have been gone over carefully by the building committee of the lodge, provide for offices, club rooms, a kitchen and dining room as well as two lodge halls.

All Benefits of Club

All except two of the offices will be outside rooms facing on either Broadway or Orange street. They will open into a corridor running the length and width of the building. On the north side of the second floor

Mrs. G. C. Griffith Chosen Manager of Research Hospital

A change was made recently in the personnel of the Glendale Research hospital staff and Mrs. G. C. Griffith is now manager of the convenient and comfortable local institution. She comes to Glendale with a remarkable record for success in similar work at other hospitals in Los Angeles and vicinity. She has had sixteen years' experience in the profession of nursing, most of which has been in executive capacity.

The nursing staff is composed of graduates from various large institutions and the highest class service is accorded patients. All recognized physicians have access to the institution and the rates are most reasonable—more so than many of the larger hospitals—according to Mrs. Griffith.

The Glendale Research hospital has the atmosphere of a home with all the equipment and convenience of the most modern laboratories.

JUNIOR MUSIC AUXILIARY

The members of the Junior auxiliary of the Glendale Music club, of which Miss Veda Knapp is president, will meet tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Parker, 212 North Orange street. After the program a social hour will be enjoyed, with games and refreshments.

Finds Abandoned Boy Babe's Body Concealed In Barn

Bundled up in old newspapers, a baby boy believed to have been several days old when he died, was found shortly before noon today by Charles B. Anthony of 517 West Park avenue in a barn at the rear of the J. C. Griffin home, Park avenue and San Fernando Road.

The wee bit of humanity, which evidently was deserted by its parents, who probably passed through Glendale a week ago, was left lying on a pile of excelsior. H. E. Kogan, who uses the barn for garage purposes, states he noticed the package first about a week ago, but paid no attention to it.

Mr. Anthony explained to Officer R. L. MacLean, who investigated the case, that preparatory to making a contemplated trip to Lompoc, he went to the adjoining garage to get a piece of burlap to put under his car while filling the grease cups.

Touches Infant's Head

When he searched for a piece of the rough cloth, his hand encountered the head of the infant and he immediately reported the matter. The barn where the baby was discovered is close to the San Fernando Road and an open window made it possible for a passing motor to toss the package into the place.

The child evidently was born without the care of a physician. It was unclothed and the police have only the papers as clues, other than the disintegrating body. Dr. J. E. Eckles, city health officer, and Police Chief A. O. Martin are making a more thorough investigation this afternoon.

Miss Doris Jackson and Howard Thompson Wed

A very pretty wedding took place last night in the Episcopal church near Echo park, Los Angeles, when Miss Doris Jackson of Los Angeles became the bride of Howard Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thompson of 348 West Milford street, Glendale.

The bride was very charming in a gown of white net and wore a wedding veil caught with orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of white rosebuds. She was attended by Miss Florence Hughes. Sloan Freeman of Glendale acted as best man. Just before the wedding ceremony a vocal solo, "I Love You Truly," was sung by a friend of the bride. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played. After the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Los Angeles.

The young couple have gone to Catalina on their honeymoon, after which they will reside temporarily in Orcutt, where Mr. Thompson is employed in the absorption plant of the Union Oil company. Mr. Thompson was graduated from Glendale Union high school about two years ago.

H. S. Webb Sales Force Entertained at Party

Mrs. C. L. Miles of 914 Randolph street and Mrs. E. L. McGhee were hostesses last night at a Halloween party given at the home of the former to the members of the sales force of H. S. Webb & Company dry goods firm. There were about twenty-five who joined in the fun and enjoyed the hospitality of these two ladies. The guests arrived in costume and masked. Halloween games were played. Decorations of cats, witches, pumpkins and other Halloween motifs were used throughout the house.

One of the surprises of the evening was the announcement made by Mrs. McGhee of the marriage last Saturday of Mrs. Rassmussen to Arthur Williams of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Mary Baxter and Mrs. Frank Williams, both of whose birthday anniversaries were yesterday, were presented with bouquets, which had been sent by Mr. Webb, and also with other gifts from their friends.

During the evening dancing was enjoyed, the old square dances providing a great deal of fun. Halloween refreshments were served and the guests departed at a late hour.

OUTLINES HISTORY OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN CITY

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, Pastor, in Interview, Tells About Remarkable Growth

By ART SHERBORNE

"Every Sunday the church is crowded to the doors," stated the Rev. W. E. Edmonds yesterday afternoon, speaking about the congested condition of the Presbyterian church and its need for enlarged quarters. "The auditorium seats 500 and the Sunday school room, which opens into it by sliding doors, seats about 200. On several occasions we have been obliged to turn people away.

"The men have outgrown their quarters in the old building used for their Sunday school class, and now they are meeting in the council room of the city hall with a weekly attendance of seventy-five. When this class was first organized, ten years ago, it had a membership of fifteen. John W. Fairchild, who now lives in Altadena, was the first teacher. The present teacher is Keith L. Brooks of Los Angeles, who is on the faculty of the Bible Institute and a noted teacher and writer. He is also a fine pianist.

Large Sunday School

"The Sunday school now is one of the largest, in proportion to its membership, in Southern California. It has an enrollment of more than 600, and an average attendance of more than 550. H. L. Finley is the superintendent; Miss Bessie L. Field, one of the high school teachers, is associate superintendent.

"The present Sunday school room is equipped to take care of 250 and is overcrowded by about 250. Several of the classes have to be held outdoors in the back of the church. One class is in the church kitchen; another is in the choir room and another occupies the pastor's study. We have them packed away everywhere.

"The Dynamos class meets up in the church tower which the young

Signs on Sidewalks to Remain, Council Says

Signs on sidewalks in the business district of Glendale will not be removed by order of the city council—at least, not right away. This was made plain at last night's council meeting when Councilman C. E. Kimlin urged that the pending ordinance barring the signs be forgotten for the time being. Other councilmen agreed and so there is no immediate danger of signs being ordered off the sidewalks. The ordinance prohibiting a display of goods extending more than twelve inches from a store front still stands, however.

Contract Is Given for Business Section Sewer

Bids for the construction of a sewer system in the business district of Glendale were opened at the meeting of the city council last night and the contract awarded to B. D. Zaich of Los Angeles, the total of his bid being $25,378.27. The next lowest bid was for about $32,000. The highest was close to $40,000.

Vitrified pipe will be used in the system and it will be furnished by Tropico Potteres, inc., a Glendale institution that has a large weekly payroll.

REPORTS HIS CAR STOLEN

George Tyrrell of 322 East Dryden street reports to the police that his Ford car was stolen last night. Another machine of 1910 vintage was brouht to headquarters and claimed by its owner this afternoon. It had a Wyoming license plate and looked to Officer Louis Nunn as though it didn't belong here.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS MAP?

A map of proposed zones for business, industrial and residential districts in Glendale which represented the efforts of the zoning committee is either lost, strayed or stolen, and if not recovered by City Manager W. JAPANESE PREMIER ASSASSINATED BY KOREAN BOY; GREAT POLITICAL CRISIS MAY RESULT, IS DECLARED

Cabinet Leader Repeatedly Stabbed and Soon Dies of Wounds; Crime Expected to Have Effect on Armament Parley in Washington

By DUKE N. PARRY
Written for International News Service

TOKIO, Nov. 4.—(via Radio) Premier Takashi Hara was stabbed to death here late today at the Central railroad station.

A Korean boy hiding in a third-class waiting room sprang upon the Premier and stabbed him repeatedly in the breast.

The cabinet leader died fifteen minutes later.

His assailant was immediately arrested.

By peculiar coincidence the scene of the stabbing was identical with the assassination of Ri On So, Korean leader espousing the Japanese cause in Korea, the Korean also having been stabbed to death.

Premier Hara was preparing to depart for Kyoto to attend a meeting of the Seiyu-Kai party, of which Premier Hara was the virtual leader since the death of Prince Ito.

Comes as Great Blow

The premier was in particularly good health and spirits when seen by your correspondent prior to his departure for the railroad station.

The assassination came as a profound blow to the public here.

The railroad station was crowded with late afternoon travelers.

The news that the premier had met death quickly spread.

When Ri On So was assassinated on the same spot nearly a year ago, the news of the tragedy was withheld from the public for nearly a week.

Ri On So was a member of the former royal family of Korea and was deeply hated for his espousal of the Japanese administration of Korea.

Police who arrested the Korean boy charged with the assassination of the premier did not give out his name, but it is assumed that he was a member of the Korean "Independence" party.

The assassination of Premier Hara comes as the climax to a series of violent escapades on the part of the agitators for Korean independence.

A general uprising in March, 1919, in which it is estimated 30,000 participated marked the beginning of the campaign of the "Independents" for freedom from Japanese control.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—That the assassination of the Japanese premier will have a far-reaching effect on the conference here was generally predicted when the news became known.

The death of the premier finds two of the most important men in Japanese public life in Washington, thousands of miles away from Tokio, in admittedly what may be a political crisis.

Prince Tokugawa, head of the Japanese conference delegation, has been prominently mentioned for the premiership when the Hara ministry was under attack and at one time was suggested as a compromise candidate for the post.

Baron Admiral Kato, minister of marine, who ranks second to the prince in the delegation here, occupies a place scarcely less conspicuous in political Japan.

REAL ESTATE BOARD HEARS CITY JUST STARTS GROWING

Remarkable Recent Record Is Nothing to What's Coming, Says Charles B. Guthrie

An inspiring talk by Charles B. Guthrie, president of the Glendale Realty board, the consideration of communications, and the discussion of plans for the election of officers at the next regular meeting, Thursday night, November 10, featured the meeting of the Glendale Realty board held at the Intermediate school last night.

The growth of Glendale has been nothing in comparison with what it will be within a few years, pointed out Mr. Guthrie, who said in part:

"The Glendale Realty board has for its object the upbuilding of the profession, as the work of a realty broker is as much a profession as that of law, medicine, etc. One must know how to handle property titles, escrows, legal deeds, and all matters of that kind and one cannot do it without a knowledge of the business.

Close Harmony Needed

"The real estate business has been my hobby for the past eighteen years. I believe that the older members of the profession realize the benefit of close harmony for successfully carrying on the business. A year ago when the Glendale Realty board was organized I hoped that at least 90 per cent of the local real estate men would become members of the organization, but the response that has been met is a little disappointing to those who have the best interest of the real estate business at heart.

"Every real estate man must act as a trustee, and, therefore, his transactions must always be above reproach, and my experience in the business has proved to me as a whole the real estate broker is an honest, dependable man who has the community interests at heart.

To Carry Out Ideals

"The idea of the Glendale Realty board is to carry out the ideas and ideals of the state and national organizations. The officers of the board have been very busy during the

Municipal Christmas Tree for Southern Glendale Discussed

A very well attended meeting of the Cerritos Avenue Parent-Teacher association, of which Mrs. E. L. Adams is president, was held yesterday afternoon at the school building. At 2:30 o'clock there was a playground exhibition. While the girls of the school were playing volley ball, the members of the association were served with refreshments. The regular business meeting began at 3 o'clock. Having a municipal Christmas tree in Southern Glendale was discussed and it was decided that a committee will be appointed to investigate. The report of the membership chairman showed a membership of 260.

A splendid program followed the business meeting, and included the following numbers: Book review, by George Karcher; reading, "An Exciting Experience," by Preston Blair; poem, "The Way to Heaven," by Marjorie Priaulx; saxophone solo, Wayne Gulick, accompanied by his sister, Olive; greetings by federation president, Mrs. John Robert White, and open forum.

The open forum was conducted by Mrs. A. H. Brown, president of Doran Street Parent-Teacher association and federation parliamentarian, and included four subjects. A fine paper was read by Mrs. Ella Gray on "The Meaning and Value of Play." Mrs. Frank Hartzell spoke on "Chaperonage." Miss Hutchinson spoke on "Complying With the Law," and read some of the laws governing school children and attendance.

Mrs. Anna Curtis, principal of the Cerritos avenue school, spoke on "Our School Basements and Yards," telling how they were well supervised, with a competent person in charge from 8:30 in the morning until after 5 o'clock in the evening.

The B-6 grade was awarded the banner for having the largest number of mothers in attendance at the meeting. The picture which was awarded to the eighth grade for having secured the largest membership was exhibited.

will be the kitchen and dining room and small clubrooms which will contain billiard and pool tables and all necessary apparatus for enjoying many pleasant hours.

The lodge halls will be in the center of the building, but will be well lighted and ventilated by sky lights. The largest hallroom will be 48 by 52 and the smaller 26 by 34 feet. The present I. O. O. F. lodge hall is about 35 by 65 feet, which is about a thousand square feet less than the larger of the two new halls and about 1500 square feet larger than the smaller hall.

Many Other Features

The interior of the new building as well as its exterior will be strictly modern throughout. There will be hardwood floors, high ceilings, and indirect lighting. The walls probably will be tinted in ivory.

The present quarters of the I. O. O. F. are on the second floor of the Central building, 111 East Broadway. It is understood that the clubrooms and lodge hall will be converted into offices as soon as vacated.

Besides the I. O. O. F. the present lodge rooms are being used by the Carnation Lodge of Rebekahs, Modern Woodmen, Knights of Columbus, Royal Neighbors and the new Athletic club. Although no formal arrangements have been made yet, it is expected that these organizations will join in the use of the new lodge quarters.

Construction on the new building is to be commenced as soon as possible as the Ralphs' Grocery company is anxious to take possession. The lodge rooms are to be ready on the first of February.

Real Estate Board in Session Hears Address

past year, but at that much has been accomplished and a number of things have been done to make it easier for the new ones to come in.

"The main interest at heart is for the upbuilding of Glendale—and right here I want to say that no matter what a remarkable growth or record Glendale has shown in the past, it is nothing in comparison with what the growth will be a few years from now.

"We have a real live Chamber of Commerce here, it has the reputation of being the most active organization of its kind in southern California. We can have a real live realty board if the real estate brokers of Glendale give us their support and co-operation."

Make Suggestions

In the general discussion which followed several suggestions were made for the interests of the realty business, among the suggestions being a provision for some central place in the city where maps, legal data, and books of information could be kept for the members of the board.

E. T. Seidenglanz of the Circle Real Estate company, 120 North Brand boulevard, gave an enthusiastic talk outlining the point of view of the new residents who have come here with the idea of residing permanently. His remarks were heartily encored.

Communications read by Secretary E. P. Hayward during the meeting included a letter from J. J. A. Parker, 439 Orange street, who urged the real estate brokers of the city to get more thoroughly organized, and a letter from G. D. Willamon, secretary of the California Real Estate association, announcing that he would be in Los Angeles some time next month and would probably come to Glendale.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was announced by Mr. Guthrie that the annual election of officers would be held at the meeting next Thursday night.

Something really pleasing is assured Glendale Theatre patrons tomorrow afternoon and night on the vaudeville bill which has been specially selected. Nainea, the famed Hawaiian steel guitar player, who has been featured at Grauman's Million Dollar theatre in Los Angeles, is one of the stars while "Senator" Walt Hawley and Helene have a new novelty number that will be featured in the east this winter. Jim and Helen Myre are another pair of promoters of laughs. The All-Star duo and Rizal and Atima will furnish the frills of the bill.

24 MILLION HOMES ENUMERATED IN U. S. CENSUS

More Than 50 Per Cent Are Rented, Report Shows; Third Unencumbered

By U. S. Press Association.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—The total number of homes enumerated in 1920—identical with the number of families—was 24,351,676. Of this number, 12,943,598 were rented and 10,866,960 were owned by their occupants, and for the remaining 541,118 the facts as to tenure were not ascertained by the enumerators. Of the owned homes, 6,522,119 were free from encumbrance and 4,059,593 were encumbered, while for the remaining 285,248 the status as to encumbrance was not reported.

In computing percentages, the relatively small number of homes for which the facts as to ownership or encumbrance were not ascertained by the census enumerators were apportioned by the census bureau among the rented, owned-free, and owned-encumbered groups in the same proportion as the homes for which reports as to ownership and encumbrance were made.

School Attendance

The department of commerce, through the bureau of census, has issued a preliminary statement giving statistics of school attendance, by geographic divisions and states, compiled from the returns of the fourteenth decennial census, taken as of January 1, 1920. The total population 5 to 20 years of age, inclusive, enumerated in continental United States numbered 33,250,870. Of this number, 21,373,976 attended school at some time between September 1, 1919, and January 1, 1920.

The total population 7 to 13 years of age, 15,306,793, included 13,869,010 children attending school. The percentage attending school among the population 5 to 20 years of age increased from 59.2 for 1910 to 64.3 for 1920; and the corresponding percentage for children 7 to 13 years of age increased from 86.1 for the earlier to 90.6 for the later age.

Utah Proves Leader

Among the individual states, the largest proportion attending school in the 5-20 age group, 73 per cent, is shown for Utah, and the smallest, 53 per cent, for Louisiana. In six states—Iowa, Nebraska, Montana, Idaho, Utah and Oregon—the proportion of school attendance for this age group was more than 70 per cent.

For the 7-13 age group the largest proportion of school attendance, 96.1 per cent, is that for Massachusetts, and the smallest, 75.9 per cent, for Louisiana. In seven states—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Ohio, Iowa, Delaware, Idaho, and Utah—the proportion was 95 per cent or more.

The line of march as officially ruled will be as follows: The various units will meet at the corner of Central avenue and Harvard street at 10 o'clock; from there they will march south on Central to Colorado, east on Colorado to Brand boulevard, north on Brand boulevard to Broadway, east on Broadway to Jackson, north on Jackson to Wilson, west on Wilson to Brand, south on Brand to Broadway, west on Broadway to Central, south on Central to Harvard.

Each unit will be mailed a number before the day of the parade and will line up accordingly.

At the close of the parade the participants and most of the people of Glendale will gather at the corner of Central avenue and Harvard, where Mayor Spencer Robinson will give a short talk and the ministers of Glendale will conduct a short prayer service for the disarmament conference, as requested by the president of the United States.

A motion was passed during the meeting to the effect that the rules for the respect due the flag and regulations for flying the flag be published in The Glendale News previous to the parade and that a copy be sent to each organization. Miss Gladys Sharpe, captain of the Girl Scouts, was delegated a committee of one to draw up the regulations as outlined by the government and used by all patriotic organizations.

OUTLINES HISTORY OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN CITY

men fixed up themselves. They have an enrollment or about seventy-five and an average attendance of about thirty.

First Church in Valley

"The old church, which is now in the rear of the present structure, was the first in this valley. It was down in the southern part of town about on the old Tropico line on Glendale avenue. It was moved up here.

"The late E. T. Byram, whose family home still stands at 228 North Glendale avenue, was the first elder of the church.

"Soon after the church was moved here the town grew so rapidly that they had to move the old church back and begin the new structure. This was commenced twelve years ago and dedicated ten years ago next April.

"A good deal of the work on the present church was furnished by volunteer labor. The late Elias Ayers offered his contracting services and superintended the erection of the building.

No Cars on Brand

"Those were the days before Brand boulevard had a car line upon it. The only transportation was on the Salt Lake with only two trains a day.

"E. B. Riggs, a printer upon The Glendale News, was clerk of the session while the building was being constructed. This is an important office in the Presbyterian church because the clerk has to keep all the records. Mr. Riggs has returned to Glendale and now lives at 420 West Harvard avenue.

"M. P. Harrison, one of the trustees of the First National bank, was one of the elders of the church at that time. The pastor was Dr. S. Laurence Ward.

"The building of the present church was due to the same trouble which is being experienced now. The first church building was only forty or fifty feet square. That was filled by the natural growth. There was no room to accommodate the congregation. So a new building was planned which was thought at that time to be larger than would ever be needed in Glendale.

Largest Subscription $500

"The cost of the present structure was about $25,000. This was raised by voluntary subscriptions during the construction of the building. While the building was being erected the funds were being secured. When the church was opened it only had an indebtedness of $7000. The largest subscription was $500. There were 180 members at the time of dedication.

"The next year it was so crowded that a bungalow had to be built in the rear to accommodate the growing Sunday school.

"The first eight years of my pastorate 835 new members were received and during the past year more than 200. The present membership of the church is more than 1000, and that has been a net growth of more than 100 a year.

"This phenomenal growth has been possible in spite of the fact that the building was on the edge of town, removed from the center of the city."

SCIENCE CLUB IN SESSION

The Glendale Science Club held its second meeting of the season last night at the home of its president, Marvin Creager, 657 Milford street. Dyes were discussed—no, not hair dyes, but vegetable and mineral.

MOVE INTO NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Catlin of 1010 East Lomita avenue moved into their new home today at 537 West Vine street.

COMMENT

THAT'S ALL

Who Are the 90 Per Cent?
Breaking Records Pastime
Liberty Bonds Going Up
Decorate Armistice Week

By Gil A. Cowan

"I WANT some information."

That was the answer to the "hello" girl last night when she asked "Number, please?"

Information evidently was busy. Joggling the receiver the operator answered again and rang the information desk once more.

Then I got information and the number wanted and finally the party who had moved around three times in the last year.

After the big problem of the moment was settled and I sat back at the typewriter, thinking of what comment to write, it came to me that the telephone girls are worthy of a lot of praise.

Hardly a day passes that one doesn't get one of those piffle peeves over the telephone service. The lines are busy, the girls are busy, the party called isn't home or they have moved and haven't their names in the latest directory.

It is about that time one begins to wonder if the operators' only mission in this world is to make bolsheviks out of otherwise ordinarily pleasant people. In return for harsh words, a sweet voice, sometimes tired, says, "Pardon, please" or "I will ring them again" or "Number 600 doesn't answer after 5 o'clock."

There is a cure for all of this and that is the automatic switchboard, but Glendale is fortunate in not having to resort to that mechanical system as yet. No, indeed, Glendale boasts of the last big humanly-operated exchanges installed in southern California. The local office also boasts the only open, all-night pay station that is accessible to all. It is located at the entrance of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph building. Fred Deal, manager here, is responsible for this innovation.

We should all appreciate the splendid service actually rendered, for the operators display more politeness, mental ability and patience than 90 per cent of those using the telephone daily. If you only knew them in their daily work, there is no question but what their worthiness of your kindliest consideration would be apparent.

A young lady, whom we shall designate as Miss Glendale, purchased two Columbia phonograph records at the local dealer's store the other day, placed them on the seat of the car she was driving, went about some other shopping, returned to her machine and got in.

She sat on the records and—they broke. Back into the shop she walked and bought a couple more, laconically commenting: "Breaking records is my pastime."

That's Miss Glendale for you. Breaking records is a pastime for the fastest-growing city of its class in America.

October building was upwards three quarter of a million dollars and the last day of the month hurtled over the hundred thousand mark. Some speed, you'll say, and we'll agree.

Just to show that "The Evening News Grows Just Like Glendale," this paper today breaks all records for production in every respect. In the first place there are 24 pages of 7 columns, 20½ inches deep in this issue. A large portion of it is representative advertising. That is like a barometer to the business man who knows prosperity must reign where merchants are so enterprising.

Then there is a large amount of news that indicates equally as much as the advertising. It shows the activity of this city, it gives the gist of the world news, it carries features of local interest as well as foreign, national and state. Not alone is there pride in record-breaking business, but there is satisfaction in the knowledge of work well done.

Here are a few random thoughts: Liberty Bond quotations are well worth watching right now. The upward trend in the market will be noted in the financial column of The Glendale Evening News almost daily.

Howard M. McGillis, sporting writer on the staff of this paper, has gone to Berkeley to get a gridiron "close-up" of the Bear-Trojan clash Saturday. Franklin K. Morse of the Pacific Sports Service is in New York for first-hand information on the eastern elevens and Bill Unmack at San Francisco is furnishing you through these columns more "dope" on East vs. West football encounter at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Prepare to decorate your stores and homes Armistice Week. The celebration will be quite pretentious. Let flags fly and otherwise show your patriotism as well as appreciation for the veterans of the recent world war.

F. A. Clarke Telephones St. Louis, Closes Deal

F. A. Clarke of 351 West Oak street, principal in the F. A. Clarke Electric company which has one of its chain of stores here at 310 East Broadway, Glendale, and another at 732 South Spring street, Los Angeles, completed a large business deal by long distance telephone from Glendale.

Mrs. Clarke went east and on her tour was to stop at St. Louis to see the manufacturers of a household device, greatly desired in the southern California territory. Wiring for approval of the deal she informed Mr. Clarke that he could reach her at St. Louis by telephone.

One hour and twenty minutes was used in getting the call through, which impressed Mr. Clarke as a remarkable display of telephone efficiency at approximately the same rate as a telegram sent at a similar hour.

A Tremendous Building Boom Is On

Building Permits For October Reach Total of $716,780

Glendale's Rapid Growth

Has filled the city full to overflowing with people.

The high rents are simply an indication of the crowded condition of the city. People are doubled up everywhere—it is almost impossible to rent a house. An enormous amount of building is the only thing that will relieve the rent situation—and every house must have a lot!

All the vacant lots in the built-up sections are priced extremely high. This is your chance to secure a lot which will raise in value.

Glendale's Progress Told by Building

Total for year 1919.....$587,051

Total for year 1920, $3,137,269. This is a National Record for 1920 in Proportion to Population. This year to November 1, $4,130,780.

LIKE AN OIL BOOM

Only permanent. Instead of investing in something with an unknown value, people in Glendale are investing in homes—the safest of all investments.

That property values here will increase is evidenced by the fact that the money spent for improvements each month is steadily becoming greater.

October was a record month for building—but indications point to an even greater record for November and December.

'Songs, Bumps, Smiles' Title of Entertainment; Other Good Ones Promised

Another of these delightful Meiklejohn & Dunn vaudeville road shows will be presented at the T. D. & L. theatre this afternoon and tonight. Every act that appears on this program has been selected with unusual care and it is felt that this show is one of the best that has ever been seen in Glendale.

It is declared that the greatest act of its kind in vaudeville is presented by Wilbur and Lyke, that dare-devil duo. They call their offering "Songs, Bumps, Smiles," and they surely live up to their billing. Comedy is one of the main ingredients of their novel act and every one who sees it will enjoy it.

New York has sent many entertainers to the coast on the Pantages circuit. One of the recent arrivals is a clever pair of talented performers that has played every theatre on the Pantages circuit. The Winter Garden Duo bring with them to Glendale this same act which consists of singing and dancing and many original bits of high entertaining value. They feature their own conception which they call, "The Staircase Dance."

Three Selected Acts

On the same program with these two headliners there will appear three specially selected acts which have just completed an engagement in one of Los Angeles' largest theatres.

Ethel Clayton has put forth quite a number of excellent photoplays during the past year. "Beyond" is the title of her latest picture and critics who have seen this screen drama agree that it is one of the finest things she has ever done. This picture will be shown Friday and Saturday in conjunction with the program of high class vaudeville.

Frequent Deliveries of Coffee Prove a Big Aid to People

While the world war entailed untold lessons and suffering upon the entire human race, it was not without its beneficial results. One of these was the development of a habit of thrift in the people generally, with the result that any idea which tends to reduce the cost of one of the everyday necessities, without a corresponding sacrifice in quality, is assured of a hearty welcome.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the plan of an enterprising firm of southern California wholesale grocers—which provides a means of supplying the very best grade of fresh-roasted coffee, with all its goodness intact, at a saving of approximately ten cents per pound—was predestined to success right from the start.

The method is simple but only possible through the possession of exceptional facilities for frequent deliveries. It is generally understood that coffee begins to deteriorate from the moment it is roasted—which has made necessary the use of tin packages where coffee is liable to remain in stock for any length of time. This is most expensive, because the price of tin has advanced during the past few years to an extent that adds approximataly from 6 to 10 cents to the cost of a pound of coffee packed in that manner.

To meet this condition and make it possible for the consumer to avoid this useless expense, the Smart & Final company, large wholesale grocers of Santa Ana, with distributing warehouses in other cities of southern California—from each of which a fleet of trucks radiates throughout all the intervening territory, insuring frequent deliveries to every grocer—has placed upon the market a coffee of the highest grade, put up in one-pound, air-tight, water-proof paper bags. This coffee is roasted and ground by them daily, and delivered to the grocers throughout the territory in small quantities—so as to always keep their stocks absolutely fresh. In fact, the buying of large quantities is unnecessary and is discouraged, because immediate delivery of fresh-roasted coffee can always be made—thus eliminating the necessity for tin packages altogether.

So timely has this innovation proven, and so spontaneous has been the response, that it bids fair to revolutionize the coffee business of southern California. In fact, the Smart & Final people have been obliged to install an immense coffee roasting plant in Santa Ana, in order to properly care for the demand, and to open a distributing warehouse in Pasadena in addition to those in Pomona and Wilmington.

The new coffee, which is declared equal to any on the market, is being put up under the name of "Orange Blossom," and is carried in stock by all modern grocers throughout this section.

DETAILS FOR STATE HORSESHOE MEET BEING PLANNED

Several Hundred Will Attend Gathering Here, Estimate by Local Officials

BY C. C. CLUTE

W. H. Nicoles, 322 East Fairview avenue, secretary of the Glendale Horseshoe club and treasurer of the State Horseshoe Pitchers' association, announces that the interest shown and the number of inquiries received indicate that several hundred will attend the State Horseshoe tournament to be held on the high school grounds here November 25 to 26.

The following rules and regulations governing the tournament have been decided upon and are announced by George E. Krimball, 348 Carrol Park, West Long Beach, secretary of the state association:

Weight of shoes not to exceed 2½ pounds; length not more than 7½ inches; width, 7 inches; distance from peg to peg, 40 feet.

To Change Entry Fee

An entry fee of 50 cents will be charged each one entering in the events of the tournament and all entries must be filed with Secretary Krimball of West Long Beach before Saturday, November 19. Application blanks may be secured from him and it is announced the tournament is open to any horseshoe club in the state.

The full program has not been arranged as yet, but will be ready to announce in a few days, says Mr. Nicoles. A few of the events which will be on the program that day will be 50-point walking games, four-men teams of one series each, three and five games of 21 points, and games of 50 to 75 shoes pitched for high ringer scores.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the greatest number of games or points. The Long Beach, Pasadena, South Park and Western Avenue clubs will also give a trophy prize. William Thomas of Long Beach will officiate as referee for the tournament.

Glendale Goes After It

The idea of holding a state tournament was brought out at a meeting of the State Horseshoe Pitchers' association held here October 1, and it was proposed to hold the event if available grounds could be secured and proper co-operation shown. Glendale, through its local club, made a strong bid for the place and at a meeting held in South Park a short time later it was decided to stage the tournament here.

During the afternoon of the meeting here October 1, fifty games, ten series of five games each, were played, Long Beach winning the greatest number of victories with forty-two games and a score of 1052 points and 417 ringers. A feature of the afternoon was a walking game played between State Champion D. W. Wilkinson of Long Beach, and Gilman Hoyt, also of Long Beach, the latter winning on the score of 104 points and 59 ringers while Wilkinson scored 90 points and 49 ringers.

Here Are Some Figures

Three good scores made on Saturdays only from May 28 to September 30 on the local grounds on West Broadway, just west of Barton Brothers' garage, are announced by Secretary Nicoles as follows: Pettit, 68 series, 3199 points, 1472 ringers; Neitert, 51 series, 2737 points, 1079 ringers; Schindler, 67 series, 3193 points, 1350 ringers.

The record made by Frank Jackson of Kellerton, Iowa, when he met and defeated sixty expert contestants in the national tournament, was fifteen straight games with 291 ringers and 110 double ringers. Tommy Meaghn, a Kansas City boy, 17 years old, won second place.

Eyes set wide apart indicate the character will be generous. If too wide, carelessness and extravagance are indicated. The proper distance between the eyes is the length of one eye.

GEORGE HILL HEARS OF SON'S SUCCESS AS COMPOSER

Author of 'Sleepy Head' Has Nine Compositions Taken by Musical Publisher

"Sleepy Head," the popular Columbia record was composed by William Hill, who has just written his father, George Hill, 1013 South Mariposa avenue, that nine of eleven musical compositions submitted by him to a musical publisher in New York City have been accepted and will be placed on sale as soon as possible.

The words for one of these new pieces were written by Miss Amy Faith, 1015 South Mariposa avenue, according to report, and arranged for music by Mr. Hill while he was visiting his parents this summer. Its name is unknown.

"Village by the Sea," is the name of one of the new compositions the inspiration for which came from the rythmical splashing of the surf upon the rocks by the Cliff House, San Francisco, while another of the new pieces will be "The End of the Road."

They Like Glendale

To be near their son, who then made his headquarters in San Francisco, and to avoid the rigor of New England winters, Mr. and Mrs. George Hill came to California this spring and after spending a few weeks in Oakland came to Los Angeles and finally decided to locate in Glendale.

After spending a few weeks with his parents, William Hill was called back to San Francisco on business and is now in New York City making final arrangements for the publication of his new compositions. He expects to return to Glendale next spring to make his home here permanently.

Mrs. Hill often called her son "Sleepy Head," when he hesitated to get out of bed in the cold weather when the family lived on a farm near Boston while he was a boy. It is thought that this is where the title of his song originated.

Many Sea Trips

Mr. Hill, senior, has been quite a traveler and followed the sea in sailing vessels for thirty-two years, spending 120 days to go around the Horn and the same length of time to go from the Pacific coast to Australia. His last trip was made some twenty-six years ago when he returned from Calcutta, got married and settled down.

"Bill" Hill, as he is known among his associates is musical from the end of his toes to the tips of his fingers. He plays six different instruments but cares most for hte violin.

STATE'S IDLE IS 91,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—California's army of unemployed on November 1 will number at least 91,000. Of this total is the 30,000 normally unemployed in even the most prosperous times. Commissioner of Labor John P. McLaughlin announced the result of the most accurate and exhaustive survey of unemployment ever made in the state. The survey was conducted by C. B. Sexton, superintendent of the state employment bureau, in co-operation with the United States Department of Labor employment service.

U. S.-GERMAN PEACE NEAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—A proclamation of peace with Germany will probably be issued within a week it was officially stated at the White House. It is expected that ratifications of the treaty of peace will have been exchanged within that time, it was said. Proclamation of peace will make the question of the status of so-called political prisoners an acute question, it was stated, and there was a plain indication that the president will act upon the status of Eugene V. Debs and others shortly after the promulgation of the peace proclamation.

WANTS WIDE PUBLICITY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—Senator Watson, democrat of Georgia, made a new attack on the floor of the senate, upon the resolution to have him appear before a special committee of the senate to explain his charges that American soldiers were hanged within the lines of the A. E. F. abroad.

"I am not going to be bundled up in some committee room and have my report buried," said Senator Watson. "I am going to fight it out here on the floor of the senate, face to face with my would-be investigators so that the whole country shall hear.

REALTY MARKET OF STATE STEADILY GROWS BETTER

Conditions Improving, States Fred E. Reed, President Real Estate Body

By GLEN D. WILLAMAN
Special to The Glendale Evening News.

OAKLAND, Nov. 4.—Real estate market conditions in the larger cities of the state are improving steadily, according to Fred E. Reed, president of the California Real Estate association, with offices at Oakland. Business reports from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Pasadena, San Diego and Sacramento indicate a resumption of building activities on an increasing scale all along the line. The city of Modesto reports one of the largest building years in its history. A similar condition is noted in Oakland where building permits issued by the city show the unprecedented total of $400,000 a week, or at the rate of over $20,000,000 a year. Los Angeles continues to lead the western cities with an average of over $7,000,000 monthly new building. The steady influx of homeseekers to Los Angeles county is responsible for this unvarying demand for houses in that district.

In San Francisco the real estate market is strongly expanding. With the settlement of the strike, hundreds of new building contracts were launched. The title companies last week reported $1,000,000 new San Francisco capital invested in local real estate mortgages.

Indicates Prosperity

In the interior part of the state the real estate business is showing an improved tone. Sacramento realtors have a good demand for homes. The Fresno district is building up steadily. Payment of fruit crop moneys is having a beneficial effect. The Central California territory looks forward to a big year in real estate investment and home building. Realtors who attend the National convention at San Francisco in June will be invited to Fresno.

The Own Your Home campaign which the California Real Estate association will conduct in California next spring, starting in February, will be a big help to the community as well as stimulating the realty deals. Berkeley with its million dollar stadium is now conducting an Own Your Home campaign with the co-operation of its local real estate exchange. Marked success is attending the drive.

The San Jose district reports business good during the past few months. Demand for Santa Clara valley investments is steady.

The Business Center of Glendale

is mathematically and figuratively speaking, by taking Booth's Better Coffee Store at 318 East Broadway, and Kenwood street. Use this intersection as the pivot, circumscribing the circumference in a circular movement, diagonally, horizontally and parallelly, the apex revolving on its own axis a radius from Lexington on the north, Glendale Avenue, with the six story 375-room hotel building, on the east, Lomita on the south, and Central Avenue on the west. The most travelled thoroughfare in Glendale will then be from San Francisco up West Broadway, stopping at Booth's Better Coffee Store for the noon-day lunch, 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., and continuing east to New York and other small villages adjacent to Glendale, thus proving that Booth's Coffee at 20, 25, 30, 35, 40, 45, 50 and 55c a pound, is the great magnet that is drawing thousands of residents to this salubrous climate at 318 East Broadway, Glendale, the world this controversy is now.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF HARRY S. DUFFIELD

Last picture taken of Harry S. Duffield, and two of his characteristic poses so well known to theatre goers

—Courtesy Los Angeles Examiner

EULOGY

DELIVERED by Brother James Neill, Glendale Lodge, No. 1289, B. P. O. E., at the funeral of Brother Harry S. Duffield, honorary life chaplain, Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, in the lodge room, 300 South Olive street, Los Angeles, on the afternoon of Monday, October 17, 1921.

My Friends: Among the few simple requests made by our dear dead friend and brother, was the wish that I should stand beside his casket and, as his oldest intimate professional friend, speak the tender words that should be his last farewell to you and your everlasting farewell to him.

In this splendid lodge of a great fraternity there are some 4000 members, and the list of its membership embraces the name of nearly every noted orator of this Southland, any one of whom would have deemed it an honor to have been designated for this occasion; but having been chosen by my dead friend for no reason beyond my long friendship and deep love for him, and with no better equipment than the fervent sentiment of this sacred moment, I approach my office with great diffidence and sincere humility.

You must be impressed, as I am, with the character of this tribute. The rare honor has been accorded our beloved brother of the hospitality of this dignified lodge room for this ceremonial.

It was characteristic of this sweet and modest gentleman that he foresaw for his funeral exercises no such imposing tribute as the ceremony by which we seek to honor his memory today. He had thought only of a quiet gathering of his friends in his own modest home, or a simple ceremony in the parlors of an undertaker; but, here in the midst of a busy working day, we have the significant spectacle of hundreds of devoted men and women stepping aside from their habitual and pressing activities to give ungrudgingly a reverent hour to the memory of our dear dead friend. And so widespread is the feeling of sympathy and affection that hundreds have been unable to find places in this spacious hall, while other hundreds stand on the sidewalks for many blocks on the line of the funeral procession, patiently waiting to testify by their presence and respectful demeanor their sympathy and their regard. What a wonderful spectacle that this modest, gracious gentleman, undistinguished by titles or degrees, a man modestly placed in the world's great concerns, should be accorded this signal honor. It is a tribute to the fraternity of which he was so honored a member, to the great profession in which he served so ably for nearly sixty years, but above all a tribute to his own personal worth as a man.

And just now when the world stands so shocked at the flippancy and license of a certain element of the amusement profession, perhaps this affectionate demonstration has a timely significance, as indicating that the public is aware that there is another element, a preponderating element, in the life of the theatre that makes for decency, earnestness and personal dramatic cleanliness.

It seems fitting that I should give you, very briefly, a sketch of our friend's life and activities as a preliminary to an appreciation of his character and an appraisement of his public service.

Harry Saunders Duffield was born in New Orleans, La., on May 3, 1850 His youthful years were spent mainly in the old slave states or in Cincinnati, just across the river from Kentucky, where social customs differed not at all from the social customs of distinctively southern cities, such as Richmond, Savannah or Charleston, in which latter city Harry's young mother, Sarah Twogood Duffield, a distinguished young actress of her day, whom he scarcely knew, lies sleeping her long last sleep.

This early environment left its impress upon Harry's habits and sympathies, and throughout his life to the end he was distinguished for the ante-bellum southern touch in his dress, and for the stately urbanity and soft, winning courtesy of his speech and manner.

In 1862, when less than a dozen years of age, Harry slipped away with his father's friend, Harry McCarthy, the famous author of lyric songs, and made a tour of the southern cities with that minstrel of the confederacy, assisting at McCarthy's entertainments and selling through the audiences the favorite inspiring songs of the old south.

One of McCarthy's most popular compositions was the stirring "Bonnie Blue Flag," a typical call to arms for the cause that was so fortunately lost. The refrain which our Harry always remembered so tenderly will evoke a wave of memory among my older hearers:

"Hurrah! Hurrah! for Southern rights, hurrah!
"Hurrah! Hurrah. for Southern rights, hurrah!
"Hurrah! for the bonny blue flag that bears a single star."

In 1863 this song-selling tour found the old minstrel and his young assistant in Mobile where recruits were being sought for 20th Alabama Regiment, and young Harry's romantic sympathies fired him to present himself for enlistment. He was a well-grown lad of less than thirteen, but seemingly much older. He was accepted and sent to the front as a drummer-boy. After he had served for a number of months, his brigade commander, General E. Kirby Smith, happened to see him passing headquarters tent, halted him and, upon learning his extreme youth, had him sent through the lines, under a flag of truce, provided with funds enough to return him to his father, who was then managing a theatre in Cincinnati. Here he was sent to school, from which, after a short time, he passed into the ranks of the profession he was destined to serve for the remainder of his life.

Harry's father, Saunders Balch Duffield, was a noted stock-company manager of that day, controlling theatres in Cincinnati, Louisville and Nashville, and under his father's watchful tutelage Harry received his rudimentary training. He served a complete apprenticeship, passing through all the stages—basket-boy call-boy, page, walking gentleman juvenile and, finally, leading-man. His work associated him with the great players of the time who came to his father's theatres to play engagements as visiting stars, supported by the local stock company. The mere roll-call of these histrionic giants sends a thrill to the hearts of all lovers of the dignified vocal drama. Among the revered names of the great artists from whom Harry derived his early inspiration were: Edwin Forrest, Charlotte Cushman, Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barret, John McCullough, Edwin Adams, Maggie Mitchell, John E. Owens, Joseph Jefferson—names to conjure with.

Equipped with this splendid training Harry passed into new fields and was the leading stock actor in various cities, followed by several prized engagements in that Mecca, then, as now, of the ambitious actor, New York City. London, also, saw him and approved.

I first came into his life in 1883 when Harry was beginning a career as touring-manager and star. I was very young, very ambitious for theatrical advancement and mad to join the proposed tour to the far west which had always beckoned to me in my youthful dreams as the land of adventure and of golden promise. I appealed with pathetic insistence for a place in this band of Argonauts, and whether it was my Southern accent, for I, too, was a Southerner, which enlisted his interest, or whether our souls had come into prophetic conjunction, I know not, but I found myself in August of that year under Harry's management, and our friendship of nearly forty years had begun.

Our tour brought us to California as the first company to play over the just-completed Northern Pacific railroad. We pioneered in the great cities of that rich northwest when those cities were but struggling villages. We failed to play Seattle, the Imperial City of Puget's Sound, because there was then, theatrically, no Seattle. We traveled from Portland to San Francisco by steamer because there was then no completed railway line between the cities. We spent many weeks in California, playing everywhere, using railroads, steamboats and stages. Los Angeles was then little more than a Mexican pueblo, with the beginnings visible of the great boom that has placed her in the forefront of western cities. We staged to Pasadena and played in the hall over the single grocery store, which was also the postoffice, situated at the now populous corner of Colorado and Fair Oaks streets, and there were visible from that corner that day but eight buildings. On this tour was laid that foundation for the love of this glorious state, and especially of this beautiful Southland, which was never satisfied until Harry had found a way to establish himself here as a part of the life and growth of this "land of his heart's desire."

It was a curious turn of the wheel of fortune which, after this early tour, when I was his employer, brought him back to the coast again twelve years later in my support, when I was a young star. From my company, when it moved eastward, he passed under the management of his devoted friend, Timothy Daniel Frawley, and became a charter member of the famous Frawley company, unquestionably the most notable stock organization of modern times. For seven years he served in the Frawley company, sometimes as actor, sometimes as manager. He then enrolled himself under the Morosco banner, and was long the dean of that enterprising manager's forces, as he had become, indeed, the dean in point of continuous service of the acting profession of America. On the fiftieth anniversary of his career as an actor Mr. Morosco gave him a life-time contract, an unique distinction of which Harry was justly proud. It was in Mr. Morosco's stock company that on October 1 he faced his last audience. His very convincing and telling performance of the old-fashioned tailor in the comedy, A Tailor-Made Man, will not soon be forgotten. It seemed as if fate had reserved this opportunity as the crowning achievement of his closing years.

Perhaps the happiest incident of his long and honorable public service occurred on the night of September 19 last, the 59th anniversary of Harry's debut. A great group of brother Elks from this lodge made a surprise visit to the theatre and sent him over the foot-lights a splendid floral piece, to which was attached this note, of compliment and affectionate congratulation, contrived by a man of exquisite sentiment,—a true poet with a golden heart,—our own eloquent and devoted Past Exalted Ruler Mike Shannon:

"Tonight, Harry, you are celebrating your fifty-ninth anniversary as a player upon the speaking stage.

"It has been given to but few men to have many friends and no enemies. This gift has been yours.

"It has been the honor of but few men to spend over a half century in bringing happiness into the lives of others. This service you have given.

"You have looked out over the footlights into the faces of many thousands of human beings, and before the last curtain some person has been made happier or better because you were a player.

"You have many times in an eventful life worn upon your brow the laurel wreath of honor and success, and while in the early afternoon of your days no stately mansion stands upon the spot that you call home, and no pomp or ceremony marks your coming or going in the private affairs of life, we believe that in this great metropolis on the shores of the sundown sea, no man numbers more friends than you, Harry Duffield.

"We send you with this note the world-wide token of love and endearment, flowers: but, when all of these blossoms have spent their lives, when petal is faded and perfume gone, there will still bloom in the garden of the hearts of each of us the everlasting rose of friendship, whose beauty never fades, and the perfume of which is the constant prayer for the health and success and happiness of you and yours, Harry Duffield, gentleman, player and friend."

I believe our dear tender-hearted, sensitive Harry was never more touched than by this evidence of fraternal love. I found him in his dressing room, after the play, in tears, reading over the note aloud to each new visitor.

His devotion to the fraternity of Elks was the great passion of his life, second only to his devotion to the great church in which he was reared. He had been initiated into this lodge twenty-one years ago, during the administration of his warm friend and legal adviser, Past Exalted Ruler John G. Mott, and he has been through all the years since, the ideal Elk in principle and practice. No duty assigned him by the lodge was unwelcome, no opportunity missed to spread the amiable doctrines of our beneficient order. And, after his appointment as life chaplain, he seemed to merge every thought, feeling and action into the very Spirt of Elkdom.

You will recall with sadness that it was on his recent trip with the delegation from this lodge to the annual state convention at Santa Cruz that the foundation was laid for the attack that carried him off suddenly.

Harry was proud of his uniform and conscious of his patriarchal appearance at the head of the column, and the long march which he insisted on making in the official parade overtaxed his strength and hastened his end. He returned home the Sunday after the convention greatly fatigued but still well enough to describe to his wife in his usual graphic manner the incidents of the trip. He retired at his usual hour but was seized before daybreak with the beginning of his fatal attack. I called on him Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday afternoon. He seemed to be improving. We had comfortable chats, neither of us suspecting his danger. When I was leaving the last time I ever saw him in the full possession of his faculties, I said quite casually, "Well, good-bye, old chap." He reached for my hand and holding it quite firmly in his, with his large brown eyes fixed on me, he said, "No, not good-bye; good luck, old friend, good luck." I had forgotten for the moment his lifelong habit of parting from his friends with that final salutation—always good luck, never good-bye.

When I saw him again, on Thursday, he was beyond clear consciousness and was near the end. Already a good priest had given him the consolation of his faith. His last conscious act was to raise himself from his pillows in an effort to invoke a blessing with the sign of the cross, but his arm fell nerveless to his side. A devoted woman held his hand and guided it as he completed the churchly benediction. Then he sank back with a serene smile and his mind was closed forever to all earthly considerations. On the stroke of 11, on the last chime of the hour—the hour so sacred to the fraternity of Elks, the mystical hour for recollection and for prayer—the heart of this great Elk ceased to beat and his soul passed to the Grand Lodge above, there to be judged by the Grand Exalted Ruler of the Universe.

At the moment of the passing of this great soul, Harry's old friend and manager, Brother Tim Frawley, knelt beside the bed of death and, in a touchingly beautiful prayer that brought peace and comfort to all hearts, besought God's mercy for the soul of our friend and consolation for those that mourned.

Thus Harry Duffield passed to the Great Beyond, as he might have wished to pass, in the fullness of years and of honors, in his own home, surrounded by his most devoted friends, ministered to by his loyal wife and in the full assurance of God's promised mercy, his soul "crossing the bar" at our sanctified hour of 11.

I have sometimes thought that if this lodge wished to give concrete expression to its conception of the typical Elk, the image evoked would not resemble the antlered denizen of the forest, which stands as the accepted symbol of our order, but would bear in bronze or marble the face and form of Harry Duffield. In a little time the grave will close over the loved form of our dear friend and there will remain only a gracious memory. A great sorrow has come to us. In the passing of Harry Duffield there disappears not only a personality but an institution. His was perhaps the best known and best loved figure of our Southland. His life touched so many lives; his magnetism penetrated so many circles that he will be grievously and widely missed. Especially to us, who have known him for so many years, is the loss a severe one. I have known him through all the phases of his active and useful life, from the zenith hour of his manly powers to the full flower and fragrance of his beautiful old age. When I first saw him, he was alert, erect, energetic, handsome, gifted; with dark hair and flashing eyes; impetuous, quick, fiery, yet always fair and courteous. I have seen him in many a crisis that challenged his courage, but always he was serene and unafraid.

"The bravest are the tenderest;
The loving are the daring."

In all these years I never heard from these dead lips one irreverent oath. His thoughts were white and his speech was clean. By nature he was devotional. He believed in church attendance and private prayer, and in the constant reference of daily concerns to Divine guidance. His reputation for gentle judgment of his fellows was well-known. Save to report good of his fellow-man, he spoke not at all. Indeed, the keynote of his character was his lovingness. I never knew any man who so wanted to be loved. He loved his friends; he frankly shared his love and he demanded their love in return. He counted that day not lost that brought him a new friend or an hour's reunion with an old friend. He found life sweeter as the years crept upon him because he possessed that rare gift in the aged of adding each day to his circle of friends. His unconscious motto in life was found in that charming verse:

"The happiest heart that ever beat,
Was in some quiet breast,
That found the common daylight sweet,
And left to heaven the rest."

He wore his emotions on his handsome face; his mobile features betrayed every feeling. If he stood beside the sick bed of a suffering friend, he showed his sympathy and concern.

It is too often the case with those of our race and blood, we Anglo-Saxons, that we mask our feelings behind an ashamed immobility. We look upon a friend in the grip of a great loss and a great grief dry-eyed and expressionless, while we weep with the eyes of our hearts. Not so with Harry; he was as ready with a tear as with a smile.

We shall miss you, old friend, we shall miss your gracious sweetness; the soft cadences of your magnetic voice, your merry laugh—and was there ever a laugh like Harry Duffield's' Whoever that heard it can forget it? So contagious, so compelling, so irresistible!

Whatever our loss, we yield in our grief to those still closer than ourselves by right of kinship,—to the children and grandchildren, especially, to whom we tender our sympathy. But above all do we yield to the devoted, loyal wife, who, for so many years has been friend, companion, pal. To her we give our sincerest assurance of fraternal solicitude and devotion.

It is with sad hearts that we come at last to the parting of the ways. I know, dear Harry, that your parting salutation was always "Good-luck, old friend, good-luck," but now it must be not only good-luck, old friend, good-luck, but it must be good-bye, old friend, good-bye; and so good-bye forever, dear Harry Duffield, our best beloved, and may the dear, gentle God be very tender with you and give you everlasting peace and rest.

Business Conditions Growing Steadily Better; Building Boom Throughout West

By JAMES T. GILGALLEN
Written for International News Service

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Business is gradually heading back toward prosperity, according to a survey of conditions in the central and middle west, the Rocky mountain region and the Pacific coast, completed today by the International News Service.

Optimism has again come to the front and in the last few days there has been an appreciable revival in certain industries, particularly steel, in various parts of the country.

The "hard winter ahead" may prove a bugaboo, if reports received may be accepted.

Trade Is More Healthy

Lifting of the railroad strike cloud apparently has an encouraging effect upon business generally. Trade has not reached the boom stage by any means, but it is becoming more stable and healthy and the outlook is promising.

G. R. Cullinan, general manager of the Western Electric company, said the announcements of the last few days that steel plants in the east were beginning to resume operation on a 100 per cent basis is an excellent indication of what is ahead.

"Improvement in the steel business is the forerunner of improvement in other industries," he said.

The Illinois Steel company reported an increase in orders during October of from 10 to 15 per cent over the previous month.

Increase in Business

Armour & Company said:

"Volume of business in the last month has increased. Demand for packing house products increased materially. While the increase is very satisfactory it would not be proper to say that our business is improving by leaps and bounds."

Jos. R. Noel, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said the settlement of the railroad strike was an important element in stabilizing conditions.

"Practically every line is getting started again," John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, said.

"The stumblingblock in the path of prosperity, however, is high wages for railroad help which is holding up freight rates."

Plants in Wisconsin engaged in the production of stoves, furnaces and ventilating devices using sheet metal have had a steady increase in the last six weeks. The same is true of tin and enameled ware manufacturers. Since September 15, five thousand men have been employed.

Louis Keuhn, president of the Milwaukee Corrugating company, says that his company is flooded with orders and he does not think the peak of the new prosperity has been reached.

Peoria, Ill., center of manufacture of agricultural implements, reports that the number of unemployed in that region has been reduced from 8,000 to 2,500.

Factory Forces Growing

While there has been no sudden reopening of manufacturing plants in Nebraska in the last sixty days, practically every factory in the state has been slowly adding to its working force. Demand for skilled workmen is good in every line although there still is unemployment among common labor.

In the Rocky mountain region, however, the return to normalcy is slow. Pueblo, steel center of the west and home of the Rockefeller steel plant, shows little improvement.

"There is no improvement in business to justify the resumption of full-time work," declared Jesse F. Welborn, president of the Colorado Fuel & Iron campany, a Rockefeller concern.

Yet there has been a slight increase in building activity in Denver. Less men are out of work than a month ago, civic organizations and employment bureaus bringing about this betterment of conditions.

Building Boom in West

The close of the harvest season throughout the region increased unemployment slightly.

The far west is in the midst of a building boom and reports from that region are quite optimistic. Reports to the twelfth district Federal Reserve bank for the states of Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and Idaho, from twenty representative cities, for the past month, show the highest returns ever made in the district. Permits issued were 20 per cent in excess of the same period last year, and value 17.6 per cent greater.

John McLaughlin, labor commissioner of California, says that 18,000 more men are employed in building work in the state today than on November 1, last year, the figures leaping from 120,000 to 138,000.

Winter logging will reopen next week throughout the Puget sound district with the result that innumerable lumber cutting mills will speed up and more men will be at work than for weeks back.

TO HURRY UP BEER SALE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—If it is found that the sale of beer to the sick on physicians' prescriptions will be delayed by phraseology of the regulations, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will direct that changes be made in these rules, it was learned on the highest authority. This announcement removed all possible doubt that beer now held in stock by breweries would be placed on the market immediately.

Plan to Use Sharks in New Industry; Skin and Teeth Have Value

VICTORIA, B. C.—Sharks in the waters along the British Columbia coast are to be turned into leather, liver oil, fertilizer, jewelry, and finally dollars, according to plans of Sidney Ruck, head of the Consolidated Whaling company, who has resigned to launch the new industry. Organization of the new company has been completed, and the reducing plant will be erected on the Alberni canal.

Shark fishing, like whaling, is to be carried on along the west coast of Vancouver Island, where, Mr. Ruck says, examination has shown that the huge sun sharks, some of them weighing two thousand pounds, race up and down in schools of thousands. Recently one of the coasting steamers reported running into a solid mass of these big fellows.

Fishing for the sharks will be carried on after the fashion of whaling with harpoons shot from guns.

Livers of some of the big sun sharks, which are 60 to 65 per cent oil, yield up to twenty gallons of the finest shark oil. It is used for medical purposes and lubrication of delicate mechanism. Livers of the smaller mud sharks, found in the waters between the island and the mainland, yield about ten gallons of oil.

Teeth of sharks are in great demand for the manufacture of necklaces, it is stated, owing to a new fad in neck ornament which recently developed.

The fins are almost pure gelatine. They are cured and sold to Orientals, who use them in preparation of table delicacies.

Membranes and intestines are turned into gloves, glue and gut, blood and flesh into chicken food and fertilizers. The head is a solid mass of cartilage glue.

The most valuable part of the fish is the skin, which has the toughness of vulcanized rubber. The outer surface is as rough as sand paper. This is taken off by acid treatment, and the skin is tanned.

OVER 30 HURT IN WRECK

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 4.—Thirty passengers and four members of the train crew were injured near here when a runaway string of eleven loaded coal cars crashed head-on into a Big Four passenger train. The "runaways" escaped from a yard crew and ran wild eleven miles before they plunged into the oncoming passenger train. The injured passengers, none fatally hurt, were cared for by railroad physicians. One of the crew, Fireman Charles Copeland, may die. He leaped just before the crash.

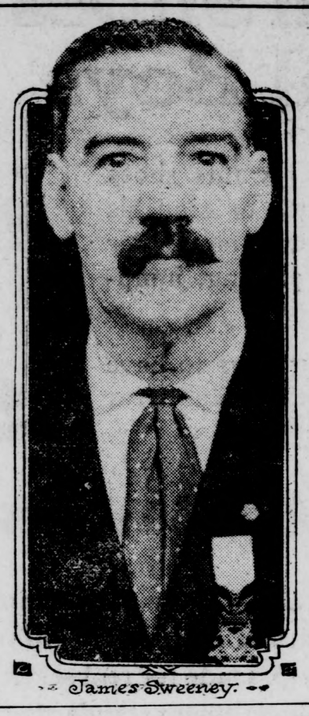
OWNER OF TWO CONGRESSIONAL MEDALS WILL BE AT ARLINGTON

Written for International News Service



James Sweeney.

DENVER, Nov. 4.—With former President Woodrow Wilson and many other notables attending the ceremonies at the burial of an "unknown American soldier" in Arlington National cemetery on November 11 will be James Sweeney, 75 years old, of Denver, a veteran of the strife of 61-65, probably the only man in the United States to possess two congressional medals of honor.

Through Adjutant General P. C. Harris Sweeney has received an invitation from Secretary of War Weeks to be one of the nation's honor guests when the remains of the "unknown American soldier," brought to this country from a war grave in France, are laid at rest in the national cemetery at Arlington.

The first honor medal received by Sweeney was pinned upon him by former Secretary of War Stanton, in the presence of President Lincoln.

When the Grand Army of the Republic adopted badges similar in design to the original congressional medal of honor congress called in all medals and issued new ones, but because of the circumstances surrounding the presentation of his medal Sweeney refused to relinquish it and six years ago congress granted him permission to retain the original medal and also authorized a medal of the new design for the civil war hero.

Sweeney enlisted in Company A, First Vermont Volunteer cavalry, in 1862. Although wounded twice he remained with the colors, and at Cedar Creek, October 19, 1864, he was detailed to General Sheridan's scout corps, under command of General George A. Custer, of Custer's massacre fame.

Donning a Confederate uniform Sweeney penetrated the Confederate lines alone at night on orders to shoot down mules in the supply trains. While waiting the approach of a wagon train from the top of a bluff he was surprised and captured as a spy by three Confederate officers.

Sweeney, realizing he would be shot, determined upon desperate tactics. Turning suddenly upon his captors he held them up and marched them and their mules toward the Union lines.

It was not long before a comrade joined him, and the success of Sweeney's strategy was assured.

Not only were the officers captured, but Sweeney took along the colors of the Confederate army.

Hearing of the extraordinary exploit General Sheridan recommended that General Custer take Sweeney to Washington with him to receive the medal of honor. After Stanton pinned the medal on Sweeney's coat the secretary of war turned to Custer and made him a major general. General Custer was so surprised and overcome with emotion that he wept like a child.

Sweeney has lived in Denver for thirty-five years and has a large family.

Leavenworth Prisoner Is Serving Time for 'Old Pal,' Is Claimed

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 4.—Housed within the four walls of the United States disciplinary barracks is a prisoner known as General Prisoner No. 22,102, who, according to his story, is serving another man's sentence. He declares he is paying a war debt which was contracted on the battlefields of France. He is known as Thomas G. Jones, but, in a statement to the officers of the institution, he has declared Jones is not his right name.

"Jones," who says his correct name is Harry W. Haley, is serving a six months' sentence for desertion. The man who should be serving the sentence was a former "buddie" of Haley and saved his life in France. According to Haley, the real "Jones" is in Canada. He is ill and has a wife to support.

Haley divulged the foregoing facts recently when he became afraid his identity would be recognized in Washington when his finger prints are scrutinized and classified there.

Haley's statement follows:

"I am not the Thomas G. Jones who is supposed to be committed to these barracks under the general courtmartial order. I am Harry W. Haley, who enlisted in 1913, at Fort Slocum, N. Y.

"My reasons for serving the sentence of Thomas G. Jones are that in the World war in France Jones saved my life on the battlefield. He faced heavy machine gun fire carrying me from the battlefield wounded. I subsequently encountered Jones in Canada, where he told me he was a deserter from Fort Slocum, N. Y. He was ill and married. To pay my indebtedness to him for having saved my life I told him I would return to the United States and pretend to be Thomas G. Jones, pleading guilty to a charge of absence without leave, all of which I did."

Prison officials have taken the case up with Washington officials. His fingerprints have been sent there to be compared with those of the deserter Jones, also with Haley's, if a record of such a soldier serving at Fort Slocum exists.

If more and better work needs to be done today illustrate the manner of it by referring to the admirable way in which something was done yesterday.

Senator Smoot's Bill Wins Supporters and Is Likely of Passage

By J. BART CAMPBELL
Written for International News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—The rising tide of approval that has set in, in favor of Senator Smoot's modified sales tax plan, gave promise today of sweeping aside the pending compromise tax bill, its supporters declared.

Senator Penrose, Republican, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Senate Finance committee, in charge of the pending measure, declared that much would depend upon the outcome of the pending verbal battle over the Smoot plan, in which Senator Lenroot, Republican, of Wisconsin, is to be its chief adversary.

Opponents of the plan on the Republican side whose number was disclosed to be but twelve by careful canvass made by Republican leaders as compared with thirty pledged to vote for it, were counting much on Democratic opposition to aid them in preventing its adoption.

Democratic members of the Senate Finance committee, stated that a canvass of the Democratic side had failed to reveal more than four or five of the minority who were favorable to the sales tax idea.

Its supporters, however, professed to find encouragement in the announcement by Senator Penrose that he would not oppose the Smoot plan, although he did not expect to vote for it, and would insist upon "fair and impartial consideration" of it.

An amendment offered by Senator Pittman, Democrat, of Nevada, providing for a stamp tax of 1 cent on each $20 or fraction thereof of the value of capital stock that does not exceed $100 per share, was adopted by the senate without a record vote.

The amendment did not affect the committee amendment, previously agreed to, which imposes a tax of 5 cents on each $100 or fraction thereof, of the par value of capital stock in excess of $100.

NAVAL COMBINATION AGAINST AMERICA CONCEIVABLE

England and Japan Might Be in Position to Combine Their Sea Strength

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
Written for International News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—How far America will go in agreeing to limit the size and strength of her navy must be determined in the end by a cold analysis of the strength of the navy, or the combination of navies, that might conceivably be thrown against her in time of war.

This foundation of fact already has been accepted by the American delegates to the armament conference in the sessions that have been held to date. In figuring from this basis of national safety, the American delegation already has run afoul the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which, as the day approaches for the opening of the conference, looms more and more as a stumblingblock in the way of a naval agreement.

The American naval advisers, meeting with Secretary of State Hughes, Elihu Root, and Senators Lodge and Underwood, have drawn attention to the fact that the alliance still is in existence and there is no definite information as to whether it is to be renewed.

Possble Combination

Without recommending a definite program, the American naval advisers have pointed out that a combined British-Japanese navy is distinctly a possibility under the terms of the alliance and one that cannot be disregarded in considering agreements to cut the size of the American navy.

The American delegates and the navy advisers have considered this point at some length and it was due to come up again when the delegates resumed their session in the office of Secretary of State Hughes.

WOMEN CALL ON HARDING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—A new government department to be known as the department of education and public welfare will probably be among the recommendations of the joint congressional reorganization committee, according to an impression conveyed to a committee of women by President Harding. The committee, headed by Mrs. Thomas Winter of Minneapolis, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, called at the White House to present a petition urging the establishment of a separate department of education.

Horseman Visits State Capitols; He Will Write Book

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A visit to the capitol of every state in the union on horseback, and all within eighteen months. This is the ambitious program mapped out by Van Cleaf Gulick, of Bentonport, Iowa.

Gulick, a veteran of the World War, created something of a stir when he galloped into this blase city attired in cowboy outfit with regulation sombrero and black tie, astride a beautiful brown mare he calls "Pet."

Gulick declared he started his trip of approximately 12,000 miles from Monmouth, Ill., on May 23. He has covered just 2,969 miles and visited twelve state capitols—namely Wisconsin. Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Vermont, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

"I'm attempting to collect material for a book," Gulick declared in explanation of his trip. "The trip is not being undertaken on a wager."

FEW WORDS RESULT IN FINDING CLEW TO DRUG RING

Denver Detective Hears Bit of Conversation; Reveals Traffic in Narcotics

By RAY HUMPHREYS
Special to The Glendale Evening News.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 4—For more than twenty years Detective Franck C. McCabe, ace of the Denver police department, has kept his ears open for stray bits of gossip—

And it has paid good dividends, this practice.

Early one morning last week McCabe, now on duty at the Denver Terminal, heard two women, just off the inbound train from Los Angeles, whispering as they walked through the station subway. McCabe was near to overhear.

"There was something funny about her, wasn't there?" asked one of the women excitedly.

Few Words His Clew

"She looked like she was dying," replied her companion, "and there was nobody to help her off, either."

McCabe turned in his tracks and went back to the train. It was a chance that the matter needed investigation—and that chance has now developed into a probe that is already reaching from Los Angeles to New York, and including every way station in betwixt. Federal officers are on the case.

Reaching the train McCabe asked a porter if there was a sick woman aboard. The porter promptly replied that there was and told the detective where to find her. McCabe, finding her, saw at a glance that the woman was a dope habitue—suffering from lack of the quieting narcotic.

Suffers for "Shot"

For years Mac served on the dope squad and he knew how to handle her. She was so weak she could not move and she told the detective that she had run out of drugs en route and was suffering as the result. McCabe called station "red caps" and she was removed to a rest room, where a police surgeon administered a stimulant.

"I'm going to Philadelphia," the woman, hardly more than a girl, told McCabe as he questioned her.

"I've been on the 'dope' for three years," she went on. "I contracted the habit in a Los Angeles hospital where I was a nurse. I lost my position when they found it out. I went from bad to worse until I finally began to live with people afflicted with the same habit I had. I found it easier to get drugs that way and so I lived contented, working just enough to keep me alive. I never sold an ounce of drugs, though.

Tells of Smuggling

"Then my brother in Philadelphia heard of it and wired me funds to come home. I thought it best to go. I bought some 'dope' before I left and a friend of mine, who knew one of the agents for a big drug smuggling outfit, told me where I could get a new supply in Salt Lake, Ogden, Denver, Pueblo—

"Where did he say in Denver?" asked McCabe.

"He told me to see a certain bell hop in the ——— hotel," said the woman, and she named one of the best hotels on Seventeenth street, Denver, and gave the detective the name of the bell boy, who was the alleged head of the "branch house" in Denver.

McCabe, after procuring treatment for the girl, helped her on the eastern train, and saw her off.

Probe Is Under Way

Then he began a quiet probe and today the foundations of one of the cleverest nation-wide drug rings are laid bare. From the chance meeting with the girl McCabe had obtained information that may turn up a score of "branch managers" of the narcotic ring in that many cities, including Los Angeles headquarters of the ring.

According to revelations made by the Los Angeles girl, the business of supplying men and women crossing the continent with drugs at "service stations" is a well developed one.

DISABLED VETERANS TO RECEIVE CARE, PROMISE GIVEN

Members of Senate Declare They Are Amazed at Many 'Sad Truths' Reported

By H. K. Reynolds
Written for International News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—Amazed by the disclosures which came to their desks in the comprehensive report of the special committee which has just completed a sweeping investigation of the government's treatment of sick and disabled world war veterans, members of the senate were in a mood today to give thoughtful consideration of the forthcoming proposals for remedial legislation.

The investigating committee announced that a bill with provisions designed to furnish practical relief in line with its specific recommendations would be introduced in the senate at an early date.

Legislative proposals of the committee will include:

1—Appropriation of $16,400,000 for additional hospitals.

2—Transfers to the Veterans' Bureau of all hospital facilities not needed for the army, navy, or veterans of other wars.

Admit Unfair Treatment

3—Organization of a chaplains' corps in the Veterans' bureau.

4—Establishment of cemeteries at all government hospitals.

5—Adoption of definite limits and standards for training veterans.

6—Adequate appropriation to encourage of continuation of war risk policies.

7—Amending of various soldier relief acts with a view to extending greater privileges to incapacitated veterans.

"The sad truth," the committee reported, "is that instead of receiving that tender and efficient care to which they are entitled, many unfortunate disabled veterans have been treated shabbily and abominably."

Supreme Effort for Irish Peace Is Now Pressed in England

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
Written for International News Service

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A supreme effort to establish the ground work of an Irish peace settlement will be made here today when Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster and leader of the Ulster Unionists, will confer with Premier Lloyd George. Sir James also will consult with Sir Edward Carson, former leader of the Ulster Unionists, who has been acting as mediator between the British government and the North Ireland Tories.

It was denied in Downing street circles that the government has sent a formal note to the Ulster government at Belfast, but it was admitted there had been communication on the subject of a plebiscite in Tyrone and Fermanagh counties.

From Sinn Fein sources it is learned that the Sinn Fein have agreed to a settlement on the following basis:

First—Dominion status for Ireland.

Second—Ireland will owe allegiance to the king on condition that the country is a unit and not divided in autonomy with co-ordinated parliaments in Dublin and Belfast.

Third—Tyrone and Fermanagh counties and part of Doncgal county shall be detached from Ulster province.

There is every ground for belief that the Sinn Fein has consented to give up its demands for an Irish republic on condition her other requests are granted.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys to stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Advertisement.

Special Privileges Given Railroad Men, Says Ben W. Hooper

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Railroad workers have been granted special privileges by the transportation act and it is their duty and responsibility to maintain uninterrupted traffic on the railroads, Ben W. Hooper, vice chairman of the railway labor board declared in an address here before the Traffic club.

"While the government through the transportation act has conferred upon the carriers immense powers and privileges, it has at the same time bestowed upon the employes the highest dignity and power ever conferred upon labor in any land," Mr. Hooper asserted.

"Upon the theory that the rail roads are public utilities, enjoying under their franchise a practical monopoly, the right of eminent domain and other great powers, the government has assumed the right to regulate the carriers.

"It seems to me that this theory is just as applicable to the employes of the railway as it is to the railway itself.

"Does he not share with the railway executive the great responsibility of public service?"

Hooper also attacked the proposal that the interstate commerce commission should fix wages as unsound. He said the idea of transferring of the functions of the railroad labor board to the commerce commission would be a "most glaring fallacy."

"The fixing of wages cannot be made to depend upon freight rates," he declared.

DISCOVERS HE IS A HERO

LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE BY DR. JOHN M. TUTT, C. S. B.

Following is an authorized lecture on Christian Science, entitled Christian Science: The Leaven of Spirit, by Dr. John M. Tutt, C. S. B., member of the Board of Lectureship, of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., delivered in First Church of Christ, Scientist, Glendale, Calif., November 3.

The lecturer was introduced by the First Reader, Arthur P. Care.

The world today is experiencing a revival of interest in the things of the Spirit. Public expression abounds with references to the spiritual needs of humanity. Materialism, even in its refinements, has failed to satisfy human aspiration. Everywhere men are turning from matter to Spirit, instinctively confident that, under divine direction, spiritualization of life will meet human need today and will justify the longing and the hope for a spiritual tomorrow. This spiritualization of thought and life is the peculiar work of Christian Science in human consciousness.

I am sure that those of you who have observed Christian Science enter the life of a friend or acquaintance, and there can be few, if any, who have not been witness to such a miracle, will testify to a deep, a fundamental change which has come over that individual; you will testify, moreover, that the change is decidedly for the better. Whereas, perchance, he was ill, he has become well; wherein he was a bad citizen, he has become a better one; for want, he has acquired supply abundant for his needs; instead of gloom, he has come to radiate cheer; once dependent and fearful, he has become sufficient for his responsibilities and bold to meet them. What has happened to that man? He is being leavened! His thought and hence his life, are becoming spiritualized. He is beginning to behold the vision of man untrammeled by matter and is coming into his rightful sense of dominion over all. He continues in the world, though no longer of it, yet tenderly responsive to its needs, and just as he himself is being leavened he communicates the ferment to his environment to the betterment of all with whom and with which he comes in contact.

The purified state of consciousness is the kingdom of heaven on earth for which Jesus prayed and taught all Christians to pray. How much of this kingdom of harmony can one experience here and now? Just the degree of his leavening, just the measure of his spiritualized thought. Before one can go to heaven, heaven must come to him on earth. That is the import of Mrs. Eddy's great discovery. Christian Science was God's response to her uplifted heart, the reward of her unselfed devotion. It came freeing her from the limitations of a frail body, opening the way to a long delayed life work, and setting her eager feet upon the path of nearly a half-century of loving service. To her the spiritual leaven came, as through her selfless ministry it has come to countless others: "A divine influence, ever present in human consciousness, coming now as was promised aforetime, to preach deliverance to the captives (of sense) and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised." (Science and Health, preface.)

Whenever I see a life besmirched, degraded, besotted with sense gratification, I try to think of the sweetness and cleanness and wholesomeness of that life when Christian Science shall have done its work therein, when the leaven of Love shall have destroyed lust and hate and fear, when the leaven of Truth shall have eradicated the mass of error, when the leaven of Spirit shall have changed the belief of material consciousness to the spiritual understanding of life in God, when the leaven of Principle shall have taught lawless human sense that obedience to divine law is true liberty.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE AND HUMAN INTERESTS

People generally, are aware that Christian Science has touched the lives of individuals and has worked in such persons profound changes for the better in mind, in morals, in body. Have you ever considered the changes in general thought and life since Christian Science began its reformatory mission? Not only have individuals been affected directly, but the transforming influence has extended to the universal thought, so that those who have not yet come to know Christian Science have nevertheless conformed to much of its basic teaching. Surely, though slowly, and oft-times by devious by-paths, thought has come into agreement with the great spiritual facts revealed in Christian Science. Coincidently basic changes have occurred in human affairs, touching the academy, the pulpit, and the medical forum to higher, even to more spiritual issues. Science, theology and medicine are so woven into the warp and woof of human existence that they constitute its motif. Indeed, involving as they do salvation, both here and hereafter, these are the indispensable factors in human life today, they are the basis of the hope of a to-morrow. Now the human mind is finite; its every sense is, of course, limited. The human mind's concepts of science, theology and medicine, never rise above the limits by which the human thought is bounded, for it can of itself rise no higher than itself. That self is material, and hence to the unenlightened thought, science, theology, and medicine seem material. Physical science, scholastic theology, and material medicine have operated in human consciousness to belittle God with finite form and nature, and to bind man with the trammels of matter.

Spiritually considered and therefore rightly viewed, science, theology, and medicine express modes of divine consciousness, activities of the divine Mind, or the infinite Principle, God. To be true, to be Christian, religion must take into account these divinely mental modes: human action based on them is most Christian, most spiritually scientific, hence nearest right. Christ Jesus, science, his theology, his medicine, were spiritual and therefore were true Christian Science, without the limitations of matter, was the science of Christ Jesus; Christian theology, without scholastic dogma, was the religion of Christ Jesus; Christian healing, without materia medica, was the medicine of Christ Jesus.

It will be understood that Christian Science does not come to destroy science, theology, and medicine, but rather to leaven the human concept of them. It comes to purge out the old lump. In the leavening, science is shorn of physical fetters, theology is cleansed of the misconcepts of creed and dogma, and medicine is relieved of matter and properly related to Mind. Thus spiritualization of thought raises the concepts of science, theology, and medicine to a higher basis, reveals them to be in truth modes of divine Mind, and restores them in human consciousness to their rightful place, from which material theories have debased them.

THE LEAVEN IN SCIENCE

Physical science from the first has been fettered to matter. It does not pretend to deal with ultimate cause. Rather it accepts matter as its starting point, leaving to theology the explanation of origin. Thus natural science makes of matter an absurdity, an effect without a cause. Matter having no origin, the conclusion is inevitable, though not admitted by physics, that matter has no existence in fact. From such a basis, this so-called science, with altogether material inconsistency, declares matter to be indestructible. Now it is true that matter cannot destroy matter. The destruction of matter can never be accomplished by other than the dissolution of its seeming reality through the recognition that Spirit is the only substance. Matter and the human mind are like a kaleidoscope, wherein the minute particles of myriad colored glass are seen to be going through a continuous process of construction and destruction of marvelous figures, a ceaseless alignment, breaking up and re-alignment. Contemplating the kaleidoscopic history of humanity, its struggles, its unrest, its present state of fermentation, one is struck with this obvious fact: there has never been any real progress in matter. Always there has been change in matter, in incessant action and reaction, building up and tearing down. But these mutations are changes only of form. No essential progress occurs till the leaven of Spirit works in human consciousness that fundamental change from the material to the spiritual. All permanent progress is mental, spiritual, not material, and is manifested humanly in the overcoming of matter. Thus man's true advancement has been recorded not in material history, but in spiritual development. The truth about anything begins to unfold to human consciousness at the vanishing point of matter-beliefs about it.

The atomic theory was the foundation of physics, when Mrs. Eddy discovered Christian Science. Briefly, this theory taught that in the process of subdivision of matter, a point must be reached at which no further division could be made. Physics termed this irreducible particle of matter the atom and upon it raised the entire structure of natural science, including physical man. Instinctively I felt the untruth of it. In college, and later in medical college, I questioned the atomic theory, and found myself always reaching back of the material toward primary cause. Now I know that even then the leaven was at work in human consciousness. To me it never seemed logical that there could be an indivisible portion of matter. Anything that could be divided, I contended, could be divided again, and so indefinitely. Before my college course was complete, the atomic theory began to crumble. The atom was split in two, and not only in two, but was divided many times, until at last matter as matter disappeared. Freed from the limitations of the atomic theory, thought began to expand and the conquest of matter received an impetus. Chemistry, physics, the arts, gained the benefit of liberated thought and many useful inventions came, giving evidence of man's dominion over all the earth. The disproving of the atomic theory to be the final statement of matter necessitated further explanation and so physicists have been advancing from one theory to another, until they have concluded that matter is energy, or force, or to be down to the very minute, matter is just "holes in the ether." More than fifty years ago, Mrs. Eddy said something that amounts to very nearly that when she declared matter to be nothing more than a phase of false belief. Physical science, under the influence of the leavening, is slowly, by devious paths, approaching the point where Mrs. Eddy began, namely the identity of matter and the human mind. Mrs. Eddy needed not to be a pedant to conclude that the essence of matter is mortal mind, for hers was a divinely inspired course which passed unerringly over the intervening steps necessarily taken by human reason and research. The ancient philosophers taught that matter is but the subjective state of human consciousness, that in the words of Mrs. Eddy, "Mortal mind sees what it believes as certainly as it believes what it sees. It feels, hears, and sees its own thoughts." (S&H, p86, 29-31.) But Christian Science alone reveals the fact that neither matter nor the human mind have existence save as the misstatement of cause and effect, the misunderstanding of God and His spiritual creation. Mrs. Eddy's revelation of Truth was ultimate. She declared cause and effect to be the divine Mind and its idea, thus revealing man and Science to be not humanly, but divinely mental.

The human mind is an accretion of mortal education, and that is illustrated in the case of the new-born infant. Mortal man comes into the world without the consciousness of identity, without experience, without intelligence. Nothing in animal life is born so helpless, so completely without sense as the human kind. Commonly it has not sense enough to eat. Its very cries are but the chemical re-action of shock. It is plainly little more than animated matter. Weak, helpless, unintelligent, it lives wholly dependent on others for even the simplest thought processes. The educational process whereby the infant acquires a so-called mind of its own begins from birth and goes on by little and by little. First this little bundle of mortality learns to breathe, then to eat. These are not yet, however, intelligent acts, but rather the impulses of animal instinct. Education continues until the child begins to manifest intelligence, becoming less and less dependent on others, and so acquires at last what is termed a mind. But from first to last human existence, when unleavened by divine Science, is a mortally mental process, rising no higher than the limits of its materially mental selfhood. Christian Science has come to make education divinely mental, thus raising mortal selfhood above itself, leavening the race with true Science, and putting to an end the kaleidoscopic round of material life.

Although recent higher attainments in man's conquest of matter have been far in advance of the atom, the atomic theory, though disproved, continues to be the practical working basis of physical science. Just so, matter, exposed by Christian Science as merely human belief, continues to be the practical working basis for the present state of human life. This explains why Christian Scientists are consistent in continuing to employ so-called matter in its various useful forms. We eat, wear clothes, heat our houses, conduct ourselves much as others do. But the effect of Christian Science at this period is to break down the sense of limitation by which mortal man's endeavors are hedged about. The Christian Scientist is therefore putting off daily the old, the inadequate, the material, and is putting on the new, the spiritual. Meanwhile he does not increase his dependence upon matter by making added concessions to material laws. The Christian Scientist's motto is not more and more, but less and less reliance on matter. The way in Christian Science is the way of overcoming material dependence, and fewer concessions to matter is the mark of the Christian's progress. The vanishing point of matter is foreshown in man's always increasing dominion over it. Inevitably there will come a day when, in the words of Isaiah, "The earth is clean dissolved." (Isaiah, 24:19.)

THE LEAVEN IN THEOLOGY

"The proper study of mankind," said the poet, "is man," and that is metaphysically true. Had the poet been a Christian Scientist, he might have declared further the proper study of man is God, his Maker. The great barrier to human progress has been ignorance, ignorance of God, ignorance of man, Christ Jesus said to the woman at Sychar, "We know what we worship." Thereby he separated all other religious beliefs from true Christianity and indicated both the possibility and the necessity to know God. To know God is to know man, for man, the Bible says, is God's image and likeness.

Because of ignorance, the earliest concepts of God involved fear, taboo, and penalty. The basis of scolastic theology was God as a punisher of man. Whatever the concept of God, He was always a terrible Being to be feared and hence to be, if possible, appeased. This prevailing belief was perhaps no greater in the pagan priest offering sacrifices of blood to an offended deity, than in a clergyman I used to know. On a Sunday morning after a society event of the night before, at which many of his congregation had indulged in certain prohibited amusements, this dear old saint levelled his finger at his shamefaced, though unrepentant flock, and solemnly exclaimed, "Oh, you had better be glad I'm not God!" How far above his creed that man was compelled to live to be a Christian! Into the concept of God as a punisher of His offspring no element of love could enter, for there is no love in fear. Because of the proscription of love, some of the blackest crimes in history have been committed in the name of Deity. The practice of religion has always tended toward discipline, toward the citation to love, obey, and serve God through the exercise of fear of punishment. In consequence of this false belief of Deity, men have had little faith in good, in health, and well-being as the natural sequence of events under God's care and government, but have shown unbounded and everpresent expectation of evil. Why do not people expect naturally the unfoldment of good in their experience? It is because of the human mind's educated belief that the supreme power, God, is a wreaker of vengeance, a visitor of iniquity. False gods have ever been jealous gods, visiting iniquity upon their hapless worshippers. Fear of punishment never made men good, yet the very meaning of the word, God, is good. Christian Science is changing the human thought of God from fear to love, and Christian Scientists are coming to expect at the hands of a loving Father the gifts of love. We are coming to expect with confidence, the destruction of sin and sickness, and to realize the consciousness of health. Thus fear is disappearing from human lives because it is going out of human consciousness. In the absence of fear, we can always see good. We are gaining the higher concept that God is divine Love, ever responsive to human needs, ever mindful of His own, remembering His children. When I recall the terrors of my childhood, my fears of the very darkness, my constant expectation of divine displeasure, and of the terrible administration of His supposed laws of disease, and then observe the comparative fearlessness and freedom of the children of today, I thank God from my heart for Christian Science, which has in one generation so transformed human consciousness. Christian Science teaches men that God is a God not to be feared, not merely to be worshipped, but a God to be loved and lived and understood.

THE TRUE GOD

Since time and mortal man began, men have tried to know God materially, to worship Him materially, and to attribute to Him all material phenomena; yet Jesus' words are true: "God is Spirit; and they that worship Him must worship Him in Spirit and in Truth." The human mind has always turned to a power outside itself in times of stress, thereby acknowledging its own insufficiency, but its gods have been merely human concepts and have taken material form and nature. Yet even idolaters bowing down to images conceive them to be representatives of a power not material. The false gods of mortals are just false beliefs about Deity, they are the externalized ideals of the human mind.

Christian Science teaches, as most religious beliefs agree, and as reason confirms, that there must be a primary cause for all things that exist, and that this great first Cause is the Creator, or God. Then plainly God is not an object. All objects are effects, not cause. Therefore God can not properly be worshipped as an object. The infinite Creator could not be a creation, the first Cause could not be a thing. Hence God could not be a form, however large. For the same reason God could not be a person in any limited sense of a form or outline. If popular theology conceive God to be a person in the sense of a form or outline, it abandons the thought that God is omnipresent, for it is impossible to conceive of a form as omnipresent. Nevertheless God is infinite presence and power, equally and instantly everywhere. God can then be considered as person in the sense of infinite Person only, the one Being or Cause. Cause in its widest sense is Principle. Mrs. Eddy discerned that everything that really exists has a Cause or Principle. This Principle produces and controls the object, this Principle gives to its object both function and identity, it is to be found always in the presence of its object and is inseparable from it. The wonder of Christian Science is that as one grasps the fact that God is divine Principle, one loses the false belief that He is an object, yet gains the sense of His nearness, His everpresence. As it becomes clearer that God is a God at hand, one can reach out and utilize His power. Because He is Principle, God becomes available for one's needs, hence the ability of Christian Scientists to demonstrate God.

DIVINE UNITY OF GOD AND MAN.

Mrs. Eddy's employment of the word Principle for Deity aroused inevitable dissent from those whose thought included only a finite concept of Principle as one of a number of material laws and forces, secondary and derived, yet she boldly proclaimed God to be Principle. She recognized Cause without effect to be impossible, and so she concluded that God without His creation, man and the universe, would be impossible. Therefore a fully descriptive term for Deity must convey also the thought of God's handiwork. Principle, as it is used by Mrs. Eddy, includes both Cause and effect, both God and man.

Very early in the chapter Recapitulation, in the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, page 465, Mrs. Eddy has asked and answered a question which fully expresses the basis of true science, theology, and medicine. The question reads, "Is there more than one Mind or Principle?" The answer follows, "There is not. Principle and its idea is one, and this one is God, omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent Being, and His reflection is man and the universe." If God is omnipotent, if He possesses all power, He must be that power itself, otherwise there would be a source outside Himself from which to derive His power. Paul says: "There is no power but of God." (Rom. 13:1.) If God is omnipresent, and He must be everywhere, for He is the infinite One, then He must be the eternal presence. "Where shall I flee from Thy presence," cried the Psalmist. If God is omniscient, if He knows all, He must Himself be the infinite Mind. Job declared: "He is in one mind (Job 23:13.) God is thus the one Being or Principle, who is the only power, the only presence, and the only Mind.

Mrs. Eddy's exposition of God to be Principle brings to the student the recognition of God and man inseparable, and the unity of God and man becomes to him a vivid reality. He realizes why Christ Jesus so boldly asserted: "I and my Father are one," —one as Father and Son, one as Cause and effect, one as Mind and idea. Failing to comprehend Mrs. Eddy's use of the word Principle, some critics might at this point cry: "Ah, Mrs. Eddy is a Pantheist!" Let us see! Pantheism, simply stated, is the teaching that God is quantitatively His creation, that God and creation are synonyms, that "God is everything and everything is God." It is to be admitted that many religious beliefs, some under the banner of Christianity, do so deify things, and even man, for do not some teach that Jesus the man was God? Does Christian Science properly come within such category? Emphatically, no. Christian Science alone of all the denominations, teaches the oneness plus the distinctness, of God and man. Is it not clear that an idea is the product of Mind? It is the result of creation, of the functioning of Mind. Now an idea is not Mind, nor is there quantitatively any part of Mind in an idea. If Mind were quantitatively in its ideas, Mind would deplete itself by thinking. Qualitatively Mind is in its idea, and the idea is always in Mind. Can you imagine an idea outside of Mind, a mindless idea, any more than an idealess Mind? Neither is possible. Then does it not become luminous what Paul meant when he quoted: "For in Him we live and move and have our being," thus expressing the unity of God and man? Paul disposed of the shallow charge of Pantheism by adding: "For we are also His offspring," thus stating the distinctness of God and man. Paul knew that critics would say, "He is a Pantheist, he teaches that we live, and move and have our being in God, that man is a part of God." How conclusively Paul refuted this accusation by the declaration: "For we are also His offspring," and how divinely guided was Mrs. Eddy when she made plain the oneness and yet the distinctness of God and man by the use of Principle and Mind as synonyms of Deity.

The pantheistic dogma that Jesus was God is based on nothing stronger than his own declaration: "I and my Father are one." If that be held to prove that Jesus was quantitatively one with God, then it would follow that all Christians are God, for Jesus said of all believers: "And the glory which Thou gavest me I have given them; that they may be one, even as we are one." The oneness to which Jesus referred was not quantitative, but qualitative. Even as the ray of light is one with the sun, yet no part of it, so in quality man is one with God, as idea is one with the Mind which creates and manifests it, yet holds it forever within its own being.

Man then is mental, not physical. That is made plain by a simple illustration. No doubt everyone in this audience has loved ones. What is it in these loved ones that calls forth this special regard? Is it physique? Primarily no, for physicality is relative, and one whose body might be imperfect, whose physical beauty might fall far short of the standard, is often loved more than an Adonis. If it is physicality which constitutes man, it were wise to select the physically perfect upon whom to bestow affection, but too often such perfection cloaks an unlovable personality, while the invalid or physically deficient may have a noble character. No, plainly, one loves something above and beyond the physical, and that object of love can be only the thought, the idea of Mind. In this idea one finds heart's desire, fitness, goodness, all lovable qualities, qualities enduring, dependable, ever-present. Man is surely idea, and it is this idea, not the mortal body, which is the individuality and identity of man.

UNITY DEMONSTRABLE

When a man begins to learn the profound significance of the divine unity, he begins to throw off the limitations of ignorance. Man being indissolubly linked by Science to His Maker and possessing forever the qualities of the infinite Principle, the learner sees that his achievement is limited in no proper direction of thought, that indeed all that the Father has is his. In the degree of his spiritual apprehension of the great fact of the oneness of God and man, he sees how it was possible for Jesus to prove that unity, or at-one-ment, and so to make the atonement. So, also, in the degree of his spirituality, he himself begins to prove for himself this at-one-ment, thus working out his own salvation in obedience to the Scriptural command, secure in the assurance. "For it is God that worketh in you." It is evident that the desire to sin or the ability to sin cannot be present with the realization of man's divine unity with good, for sin is a departure from good, and could be present, even in belief, in the supposed absence, only, of God. But God's omnipresence is evil's never presence. Thus the learner catches a glimpse of the infinite possibilities of man at one with God and he strives henceforth to be like Him, to have the divine likeness. God's everpresence is the everpresence of Good, and where God is, there is man also.

And so because God is all Being, and has within Himself the qualities of Being, we Christian Scientists are striving to be like Him. Because God is Spirit, we are working to become spiritual in thought and deed. Because God is Truth, we must be truthful. Because God is Love, we should be loving, lovable, lovely. Because God is Principle, we are endeavoring to be principled in all our ways. Christian Scientists are no longer satisfied with former standards of honesty, we are learning that a man may be sincere and earnest and yet have little apprehension of Principle. The future of mankind under the government of Principle is foreshown in the progress of Christian Scientists to-day. Let me illustrate how the leaven of Principle is working in human lives. Two Christian Scientists boarded a train at the dinner hour and passed at once from the Pullman to the diner. Their destination reached, they discovered that their tickets had not been taken up. Now in the old way of thinking these men would doubtless have torn up their tickets, saved them for future use, or perhaps sold them, but they had come to know God as Principle and man as the expression of Principle, and so they couldn't rest until they had acted to their highest sense of Principle. They decided to send the tickets in to the general offices of the railroad, with a letter of explanation. Some weeks later, a letter came from the general manager of the road, thanking them for assistance in correcting a defective method of handling tickets on that train.

CHRIST JESUS THE WAY

Is it sacriligeous to claim one's unity with God? Paul tells us that Christ Jesus, whom all Christians accept as the exemplar "being in the likeness of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God." (Phil. 1:6.) Jesus made the atonement, he proved his unity with God, and so became worthy to bear the title Christ, "The divine manifestation of God." (S. & H., p. 583-10.) His vicarious sacrifice was complete self-denial, utter renunciation of material self-hood, or life in matter, with its false pleasures and pain, its sin, disease, discord, and death. The way of the cross was the way out of matter, out of personal sense. And on that day of days when Jesus had taken every human footstep along the way and stood triumphant over matter, the world, the flesh, and all evil, his was the leavened lump wherein no grain of materiality remained, wherein the consciousness of spiritual selfhood was complete. And so the real Jesus ascended to the Father, found his true being in Spirit. Thus he worked out a full salvation from sin, disease, and death, and thus Christ Jesus became The Way for all mankind.

Contemplating the example of Jesus and considering his command, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself," the Christian Scientist obediently enters an utter denial of physical selfhood and endeavors to be the man God made in the image and likeness of Spirit, not of matter. He strives to follow the injunction of his inspired Leader: "Thou shalt recognize thyself as God's spiritual child only." (Mis. p. 18, line 14.)

The working out of the false human sense of life in matter is a problem fully demonstrated by Jesus, and for which he has laid down for us a theorem genuine as any geometrical proposition. This theorem John stated: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God," a declaration which he qualified only so far as to acknowledge that to human sense it doth not yet appear. Christ Jesus' achievement was final. The truth of the theorem stands revealed in his example. Truth needs only to be practiced. When the geometrician arrives at the proof of his theorem by taking up and establishing each step of the right process, he writes upon his finished work the letters "Q. E. D." that which was to be demonstrated. If we are to follow the example of the Wayshower and write our triumphant Q. E. D. on life's problems, we must adhere to the Principle and abide by the rules of Divine Science. No mystery attaches to the "passage from sense to Soul." (S. & H., p. 56-7.) Aspiring pilgrims have pressed their feet upon that path throughout the centuries. "Step by step, since time began, we see the steady gain of man." Right thinking begets right acting, and so step by step, we shall win our way to right conclusions. We are persuaded that ultimately we shall "lay aside every weight, and the sin that doth so easily beset us" and prove the liberty of the sons of God. When Principle shall have wrought its perfect work in human consciousness, the idea of God will be manifest and the new creature will stand revealed, man in God's image and likeness, bearing His name, possessed of His qualities, and unlimited in any direction of good. "And it shall come to pass that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are the sons of the living God." (Hos. 1:10.)

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Do you doubt that Christian Science is the leaven at work in the human concept of theology? Recently I read in the official organ of an orthodox denomination an editorial entitled: "The God We Worship." The theme was expressed in these words: "The last solution is that evil is all an illusion, that it only exists because we think it does." Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Ascalon! Here we have orthodoxy upon the platform of Christian Science. How much of the old theology is left in the leavened thought of this writer, when he further declares: "The conviction that God is love is worth while; that evil is an illusion is magnificently worth while." Again we hear the voice of the well-known president of a theological college. "The time has come for a creedless Christianity." What means the more recent attempt of a great church to revive the work of healing the sick by spiritual means? It is true there has not yet come to this denomination the vision of the Christ method of healing, but it is plain that the leaven of Christian Science is at work therein.

What signifies the growing movement in religious organizations to consolidate, to sink creedal differences in the common good? Men are caring less for doctrine and more for deeds! Material forms and observances are becoming more and more secondary to spiritual understanding witnessed in signs following. Do you realize that progressive thought in the churches today is accepting, by little and by little, those ideals which a lone woman, a half century ago, proclaimed to an unheeding world? Then theology listened only to scoff and to persecute. Today, though not yet recognizing the fact, it has begun to follow, however haltingly, the trail she blazed. Can you doubt that the day will come when the last of the scholasticism shall have disappeared from the leavened lump of theology? Then the Christian Science textbook may be read from orthodox pulpits, even as now it is not uncommonly eagerly read in pastors' studies. Then Christian sermons will heal the sick. Then will end forever the division into denominations and the Church triumphant will appear, in the elimination of material theories and dependencies. In that day of spiritual predominance the churches will understand what Mrs. Eddy meant when she wrote: "I love the orthodox church; and, in time, that church will love Christian Science." (Mis. p. 111, 25-27.)

THE LEAVEN IN MEDICINE

Nowhere is the kaleidoscopic character of the human mind to be observed more strikingly than in the history of material medicine. In my senior year in medical college, I was required to devote much study to "The Principles and Practice of Medicine." A better term for the subject would have been, "The Principles and Practice of Medicine for 1900." Material medicine has always been in a state of flux, because it has never of itself risen, in theory or practice, above matter. Even when the matter physician discourses learnedly on mind and deals with psycho-analysis, psycho-neurosis, psycho-therapy, and psycho-what not, he deals none the less with matter, for to the materialist, mind means little else than brain-matter. While the materialist has not yet learned that matter and mortal mind are one, nevertheless the healing art is drawing nearer the truth as revealed in Christian Science. Progressive physicians, in practice, are steadily reducing their legion of remedies. Many doctors admit that there is no specific medicine. Many boast that they limit their practice to four or five drugs. I have even known physicians who declared that a physic and a pain-reliever comprised their entire materia medica. It is evident that if one can reduce the pharmacopoeia in practice to one or two remedies, he can take the next step and eliminate the drug entirely from medical practice.

It may be argued that God placed drugs here and endowed them with healing power. When did Spirit, God, delegate to matter divine power? Material medicine did not qualify for Christian healing in Jesus' day. He ignored it and turned instead to purely spiritual means. Could Jesus in his wisdom consistently have chosen an unscientific, and hence untrue, method with which to prove his wonderous power to heal? Moreover, Jesus was not alone in his Christian practice. The Bible is full of the teaching and practice of spiritual healing, but you will search its pages in vain for an authentic case of healing by material means. Even so today material medicine fails to qualify. It is not the Christ method of healing. Nothing spiritual can come out of a wholly material system, and material medicine is such. Indeed, not one spiritual quality does it embody in its theory or require in its practice. The very study of material medicine leads one away from the spiritual. Who has ever found soul or spirit in the dissecting room, on the operating table, or under the microscope? I am aware that many noble men and women, true Christians, are in the medical profession. To them all honor and respect! For it is obvious that these are such, not because of, but in spite of their professional training.

If you were to ask any medical enthusiast to name the greatest scientific achievement of the age, doubtless he would say: "Preventative medicine." Now with that Christian Science agrees, but points out that, since anything, to be medicine, must first be regarded as such, medicine is mental, not material. Therefore preventative medicine begins with Mind. Mrs. Eddy was the first in this age to proclaim and to demonstrate that health is a state of Mind, not a state of matter; that to produce and maintain a well body, it is necessary first to have a sound mind. She taught that all sickness is based in thought-contamination, that people who think cleanly and correctly live that way and are proportionately immune from disease. She taught true sanitation to be cleanliness of mind and body, true hygiene to be morality, true psyiology to be spirituality. These she recognized to constitute public health. As for so-called communicable diseases, Mrs. Eddy required strict obedience to quarantine regulations, respecting not only the law of the land, but public sentiment also. Nevertheless, she knew that the only real germ is the germ of spiritual Truth, which when cultured in human consciousness, never ceases its growth till the whole lump of mortal thought is spiritualized and man's true self-hood appears. This germ is highly infectious and contagious, yet it produces, not disease, but health, not discord, but harmony, not death, but life.

But you say, how can one question the germ theory of disease when one may readily see the actual germ under the microscope? The germ theory is not provable by the microscope any more surely than a mirage of the desert would be established as a reality because seen through a telescope. Neither magnifying nor minimizing error can make it true.

As to the germ theory of disease, there has arisen the usual failure of the doctors to agree. A famous military surgeon recently is reported to have said that the more bacteria one breathed, the less liable one would become to disease, because of the immunity established through the system becoming accustomed to foul conditions. In other words, to become immune from disease, get on familiar terms with disease germs. Familiarity with bacteria, it seems, breeds not only contempt but immunity. Nevertheless, such immunity is not material, after all, but mental. That would seem to be borne out by the fact that physicians rarely take the diseases with which they are thrown. (They almost never take their own medicine.)

Again, a class of investigators, numbering representatives of the Public Health Service, and many scientists from our great universities, enter a complete denial of the germ theory, substituting therefor the worm theory. These scientists aver that so-called germ diseases are in reality worm diseases and already the lengthy list of vegetable bacteria is paralleled by a replacer set of animal worms. There would seem to be small choice between being consumed by germs or eaten by worms, but this innovation in medical theories presents another realignment of the medical kaleidoscope.

The facts are that just as the atomic theory gave place to changing thought, embodied in the theory that matter is electricity or holes in the ether, and thus prefigured further and more nearly final theories, so has the germ theory of disease begun to disintegrate, under the restiveness of the material scientist's thirst for ultimate knowledge. A short time ago, it was considered folly to challenge the germ theory. Today, we have actually arrived at its breaking up. There are large and growing numbers of the medical faculty who boldly disclaim that bacteria have anything more than possibly a helpful role to play in disease. By these authorities disease germs are regarded as merely scavengers, which are usually present for a wholly benign purpose. Writing recently in The Medical Record, one of the most prominent surgeons in America announced: "With regard to the germ and the theory of its action in disease and the transmission of disease (except as secondary invaders) all the facts of my experience are in opposition to the present teaching. The ancient belief that the sick man was possessed with a demon which must be driven out has its modern parallel in the belief that the starting point of disease is in the introduction of a foreign agent into the body. The germ is the modern demon. You have but to substitute the idea of the germ for the idea of the demon and the medical practice of today is but a kind of exorcism." He continues: "As Lloyd George has said, 'The whole world must be re-made,' and in the reconstruction, medical and surgical practice must be reformed." His conclusions, from exhaustive experiments, are that diseases are caused by poisons produced by necrosis and decay of cellular tissues. "I have found," he says, "that man's greatest enemy is his own decaying tissue."

Note that in this newest theory of disease, a man is made ill, not from without, but from within. Another re-arrangement of the kaleidoscope! for here, as always, material medicine consistently looks to matter as the cause of its own diseases, and to remove the offending tissues, lays hands rudely upon the helpless body.

Jesus said: "A man's foes shall be they of his own household," and Mrs. Eddy has shown that a man's household is his mentality. Metaphysically viewed, this new medical theory reveals that mortal man is made ill by his own false beliefs. Mrs. Eddy said that fifty years ago. The proper, the scientific way, to get rid of disease is not to excise the effect, but rather to correct the cause. Christian Science heals and prevents disease, just as it abolishes all other inharmonies, through the destruction of false beliefs by the application to them of spiritual truth.

The abandonment of the germ theory will mark the end of the fear of contagion and preventive medicine and public health will be established to be cleanliness of thought and action, the only way to health and holiness. The hour will come for all, even as it is now come with many, when the divine Mind will supplant matter in the treatment of the sick. Even now, the healing art is impregnated with the leaven of Spirit. Christian Science is illustrating the inevitable reunion of religion and medicine which must come to pass as both advance into more spiritual latitudes. There will come a day when the unity of health and holiness will appear. Then religion at the sickbed will no longer be helpless; then the pastor making his rounds will no longer delegate half his office to the medical practitioner. Then Christ will be seen to be not only "the head of the Church," as Paul declares, but also, as he goes on to say, "the Saviour of the body."

THE DISCOVERER, FOUNDER, LEADER

What shall we say of the Discoverer of Christian Science, of the Founder of the Movement, of her who is today, as she has been from the beginning, its inspired Leader? What shall we say of that good and pure woman, that Mary, who echoed the cry of the prophet of old: "Revive thy work, O Lord; in the midst of the years make known." Through her inspiration and devotion, to multitudes the way of health and holiness has been made known, in desolate hearts the work of righteousness has been revived. Mary Baker Eddy, frail of body, though strong in spirit, at the age of forty-five, viewed not her life in retrospect, but with forward vision entered with eagerness upon a life of unremitting toil in the service of humanity.

Have you ever heard it said that God did not seek Mrs. Eddy? Oh, but He did seek her! He chose her to be the Revelator of Truth, Christ to this age, because she sought God as the source of ultimate Truth, sought Him so devotedly that she became worthy to receive and to reflect the message God had for just such a purified consciousness as hers. Whatever God does to man, He does through man, and He always selects the individual best fitted for the work. Mrs. Eddy sought God and found Him upon the Sinai of revelation, the Horeb peak of uplifted spiritual thought. There, alone with God, she wrote the Christian Science textbook. Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, a book which, second only to the Bible in its influence upon human lives, is operating to heal and to save. There, alone with God, she founded a great Church, the only organization in the world's history greater and stronger than the individuals comprising its membership. There, alone with God, she wrote The Church Manual. The Manual of The Mother Church, adequate now as always to guard, to govern and to guide The Church, its activities, and its members. The Rules and By-Laws of the Manual, she said "Will do for the race what absolute doctrines destined for future generations might not accomplish." (Manual, p. 3.)

In her book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, Mrs. Eddy tells us that the Bible was her only guide to the Mount of Vision, the never failing source of her inspiration. Patiently she sought its treasures, found them, and gave them to the world. Hers was a love for humanity that gave all and asked nothing in return. She has received without measure the love and gratitude of countless thousands, whose lives she ordered out of chaos, to whom she brought the healing and saving Christ and who through her precept and example are learning how it is that "the meek shall inherit the earth."

Mrs. Eddy's writings are remarkable in their exposition and comprehension of theology, science, medicine, law, the arts, music, astronomy, mathematics. The spiritual leaven in her thought cast out limitations and quickened her human intellect to higher and clearer views and understanding. Her wisdom was indeed profound, for it transcended books and human knowledge. She illustrated the truth of what she wrote in Science and Health (p. 128): "A knowledge of the Science of being develops the latent abilities and possibilities of man." Mrs. Eddy received instruction from God and her life measurably prefigured that day when they shall "all be taught of God." Her experience was a preparatory school which she did not fail to improve. She suffered long and was kind. She was patient beyond belief. She knew as few have known how to wait on God. She was ever grateful for the discipline of patience, but when the time for action had fully come, she waited not upon the order of action. Her initiative never failed, but she predicated every move upon divine orders. "Thus said the Lord" was her call to action and she changed her mind only when God changed it. Such characters have been the truly great of history. They have not been responsive to evil's arguments, nor found leading a vicious cause. Mrs. Eddy's life was the exemplification of her own words: "Rich hope have I in him who says in his heart:

I will listen for Thy voice,
Lest my footsteps stray;
I will follow and rejoice,
All the rugged way."
(My p. 201).

CONCLUSION

A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump, causeth the whole mass to ferment. The nature of Christian Science is to communicate itself. When the leaven of Spirit is planted in human consciousness, nothing can prevent its fulfillment in renewed being. Can the leopard change his spots? No, but God can change them. If Christian Science seems to find no response in some, if in some there seems no evidence of spiritual awakening, remember that when a woman took leaven and hid it in human consciousness, she planted it for all mankind. The ferment in general human mind and its activities is at work in every individual consciousness. Beneath an unresponsive exterior there may be a heart alive with ferment. There is present in every man some grain of the spiritual leaven, and however small, however deeply buried in matter's seeming dominance, that divine influence is at work.

My friend, is the way to you rough and rugged? Does the heart grow weary? Do the feet lag? Be of good cheer! The leaven is at work! They who see visions have stood in lions' dens. "The great Master triumphed in furnace fires." (Message for 1902). Learn to be glad where you are, for the purifying process will not cease. Some day yours will be the leavened lump. Do you doubt the ultimate solution of your every problem? I tell you the pull of the moon raising the sea and thus producing the tide is no more sure than the raising of mortal man above himself, above mortal concepts, when once thought has attached itself to the Infinite. The tides of the sea ebb and flow, but there is no ebb to the tide of such a life; it has set in, and is flowing resistlessly heavenward.

MANY ATTRACTIONS BEING OFFERED IN WOODLANDS

Historic Spot Proves to Be Excellent Location for Homes of Comfort

History is being made this winter in the most historic part of Glendale —Verdugo Woodlands, where the Spaniards first settled. When Jose de Verdugo came to California from Spain he was not aware of the realty values in the "green Verdugo hills," but he possessed the practical mind of the pioneer combined with a discriminating sense of beauty which guided him to this favored canyon.

Today hundreds of investors are being brought to Verdugo Woodlands where they are building high class residences, mostly of Spanish architecture. The F. P. Newport company has subdivided the land lying a little to the northeast of the business center of "the fastest growing city of its class in America" Glendale.

Nature at Her Best

The large lots, the mountains and moonlight and sunshine and shadows enable the homemaker to take advantage of nature at her best for, with a running stream all year round and prevailing balmy breezes, there is nothing left for humans to improve upon.

The cool night air of the Sierra Madres, the day breezes from the ocean make living a pleasure. Verdugo Woodlands is truly like a bit of old Switzerland with laurel covered foothills, great gnarled sycamore, alders, half concealing, part revealevergreen live oaks and clusters of ing distinctive homes at a high and beautiful elevation.

Improvements Are Made

This tract lying within the limits of Glendale is far more attractive than many of the higher priced foothill sections of Hollywood and Pasadena, although it is open to restricted residences at absurdly low prices. A fortune has been spent on its improvement by the F. P. Newport company, and today they are reaping the reward for their work.

Practically all improvements are in including streets, electricity, gas, water and sewers—Verdugo Woodlands boasting of Glendale's first sewage system unit. A score of homes are under construction or being planned for immediate erection.

The F. P. Newport company has used discrimination in the class of people permitted to settle in this section and they offer a community of refined, cultured neighbors—something unusual in the upbuilding of subdivisions.

Close to Glendale

This modern residence district is but five minutes away from Glendale's schools, churches and theatres, yet it possesses all of the rustic exclusiveness and quiet of a mountain resort. It has justly been termed a "Fairyland 45 Minutes from Broadway" (Los Angeles).

Free excursions are run almost daily over the Pacific Electric from the Newport offices in the Central building, Sixth and Main streets, Los Angeles, for the benefit of those interested.

BATTLE SCENES IN 'QUEEN OF SHEBA' ARE THRILLING

Next to Chariot Race, It Is the Most Spectacular; Today Final Opportunity

Next to the thrilling chariot race between Sheba and Vashti, which has aroused so much enthusiasm at the Glendale theatre, perhaps the most spectacular scene in the mammoth William Fox spectacle, "Queen of Sheba," is the great battle between the armies of Solomon and his brother, Adonijah, with Sheba's army coming up at the crucial moment to save the day.

When it is considered that over six thousand men are engaged and the greater part of the fighting takes place on and around the massive Tower of David—which, built for the production, has to bear the weight of many hundreds of armored men rushing to and fro—the magnitude of the task of J. Gordon Edwards, the director, may be realized.

Race Scores Big Hit

The sensational chariot race scene has scored one of the biggest hits ever known in the world of the screen, as nothing like it has ever been filmed before. This great scene shows six chariots, each drawn by four horses racing madly around a great arena, while more than 5000 people are shown in the crowds. One of the chariots breaks down, the driver is thrown directly in the path of another chariot, and by a remarkable escape the prostrate driver emerges uninjured.

This incident really happened at Hollywood while the picture was being taken and although the injured driver was badly shaken up, it was little short of a miracle that he was not killed. Today provides final opportunity of seeing this thrilling feature at the Glendale theatre.

Tomorrow five acts of feature vaudeville will be presented in conjunction with the film program.

Rommel Construction Company Gets Contract

The Rommel Construction company, 131 South Brand boulevard, has just closed a contract for the erection of three store rooms and eleven garages in Long Beach for M. M. Gillespie of Los Angeles.

"We had just finished his store building and apartment house at the southwest corner of North Brand boulevard and Doran street," said H. E. Rommel, "and Mr. Gillespie came to us with the plans for his buildings in Long Beach and said to go to work."

Guy Wells and C. Wilson Are Released on Bail

Guy Wells and "Chick" Wilson, who have been held in jail on charges of prohibition law violations, were released yesterday on $500 bail each, it is stated by the United States marshal's office in Los Angeles.

Mark Herron of the department of justice has assumed charge of the alleged booze ring investigation since Ernest Thede implicated prohibition enforcement officers in alleged extortionate acts.

Royal Neighbors Will Give Dance on Nov. 11

Gerard Buys More Land to Save His Mines in Mexico

MEXICO CITY—Decisions reached by Judge James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, it is understood here, assured continued prosperity in Magdalena, Jalisco and the nearby mining camp of Cinco Minas (Five Mines), where the judge owns mining property and has in operation extensive works, employing a number of miners.

The Gerard mines have been worked for many years. It is reported that engineers have warned that the ore may be exhausted within a few years unless additional surrounding property is acquired.

Closing of the mines would not only shut off Judge Gerard's revenue from this source, but would throw the workmen out of employment. For this reason Gerard's visit to Mexico has been a matter of tremendous importance to Magdalena and Cinco Mines.

Judge Gerard, it is said, has decided to purchase some of the surrounding undeveloped properties, upon which options were obtained some time before he came to Mexico, and maintain his interest in the Cinco Minas camp.

GIRLS OF GLENDALE AND ALHAMBRA HIGH SCHOOLS MAY MEET IN LARGE ATHLETIC CONTEST VIA U. S. MAIL

Each Institution Will Hold Its Own Competition And Records Will Be Exchanged, Compared, And Results Announced, Is Proposition

An athletic contest by mail!

This is in prospect during the next few months between Glendale and Alhambra, according to Miss Florence Knight, director of physical training for girls at the Glendale Union high school and who is assisted in the physical development of 600 girls by Miss Lillian Shattuck.

Certain athletic events will be designated by both schools. Specifications will be fixed, records will be marked by a regular point system; each school will hold its own contests. The records will be compared and—presto, an athletic contest by mail will have "been pulled off."

Among the high school requirements is one that every girl in attendance, unless excused upon the written statement of a physician, must participate in gymnasium work. About one-third of the pupils are freshmen who have not had the benefit of indoor calisthenics at grammar school.

Much Interest Is Shown

Each gymnasium class meets three times a week for a period and a half. Allowing time for change of clothes and a warm shower at the end of the exercise about 35 minutes remains for actual work.

The new gymnasium for girls is now on its first complete season and already its locker rooms are crowded to capacity. It is equipped with ladders, flying rings and various gymnasium apparatus and contains a number of showers and dressing rooms.

"The girls are real enthusiastic about their gymnasium work," declared Miss Knight. "Sometimes they get quite 'steamed up.' Instead of encouraging them to star in especial activities, we want them to develop generally."

An "honor system" is utilized. No, it is not that the girls cannot be trusted—they are encouraged to win a certain number of points in gymnasium work each term, known as "honors."

The Goddess Diano would be rated 1100 points; Aphrodite, 900; Minerva, 700 and Juno, 500—that is, if they were students at the Glendale Union high school.

Many Fail to Pass

Shortly after school opens each girl is given a posture test and graded for erectness of carriage and correctness of normal position of the body. About 50 per cent of the girls fail to pass this test satisfactorily. However, in a few months they are given a second test. Those who are able to pass this second test are credited with so many points for advancing from one class to the other. Near the close of the second semester is given the final posture test.

General physical improvement and increase in chest expansion count for so many points under the honor system. The girls are marked, also, for their showing in marching, gymnastic and apparatus work, and in athletic games. Class spirit, as shown in the effort demonstrated and the amount of co-operation evidenced, counts for certain number of points. Credits and demerits are given for attendance, neatness and squad appearance upon the gymnasium floor and records are given for participation in team activities.

Volley Ball Excellent

Each year's gymnasium work is commenced with marching drills and calisthenic exercise. Then indoor games are taken up. Miss Knight has found that volley ball is an excellent game for gymnasium classes because fifteen to eighteen girls can be placed on opposite sides of the net and a large number of the class can participate, especially if more than one court is in use at once. There are now two indoor and two outdoor volley ball courts. From the various gymnasium classes high school class teams are selected and from their number eventually is chosen the school team.

After training in volley ball, comes basketball. The same system is used in the selection of teams.

The tennis season does not start until next March or April but already about sixty girls are enrolled in special classes. Many of them are coming around to the gymnasium after school to practice serves in order to get in practice.

"The way some of the girls are working," said Miss Knight, "we should have a good team next spring."

And Then Baseball

Baseball comes next semester, too. The girls are very much interested in this sport. Last season they played nine or ten other schools and defeated most of them.

Soccer will be taken up by the girls for the first time this year. It will be played under girls' rules and will not be as strenuous as the boys' game. Miss Knight has been obliged to forbid some of the ambitious Amazons in her classes that they could not play regular football. They were greatly disappointed.

"The Decathlon" composes a large part of the honor system. This is a series of athletic events selected from among those suggested by the physical training department of the state board of education. A specified number of points is allowed for a certain record in each event. Among these events may be mentioned:

Some of Events

1. The volley ball serve in which count is made of the number of times a properly served volley ball gets into the court.
2. The tennis serve in which record is taken of the number of times a tennis ball is served over a line the height of a net and under another specified height so that it would fall within the confines of a tennis court.
3. The indoor baseball throw for accuracy in which a bullseye at a distance of 30 feet counts a hundred per cent—more or less.
4. The indoor baseball throw for distance some of the girls have flung a ball 90 feet across a field marked in lime every five feet.
5. The regulation baseball throw for accuracy where the girls stand about 20 feet from a wall inscribed with three enclosed circles the outer one of which is 40 inches in diameter and endeavor to score a hit in the ten-inch diameter of the inner circle.
6. The basketball throw for distance in which event some girls are able to hurl a basketball 70 or 80 feet.
7. The soccer kick for goal which is a new event this year.
8. "The stretch" in which the entrant reaches up and marks a wall, giggles real hard and then jumps up as high as she can and marks the same wall again.
9. The sitting up exercise in which the upper part of the body must be raised to a sitting position from a reclining position upon the back.
10. The push-up exercise in which the shoulders must be pushed as far as possible above the floor by the hands and arms.
11. Baseball batting in which record is made for the number of times an indoor ball is batted past a twenty foot mark fairly.

COAL PETITION DISMISSED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—A petition of the officers of the National Coal association to enjoin Attorney General Daugherty and others from serving legal process on the petitioners to answer an indictment returned against them in Indianapolis for alleged conspiracy and violation of the anti-trust law was dismissed by Justice Hitz of the Supreme court of the District of Columbia. The plaintiffs noted an appeal.

Many Protests Over Secret Sessions for Armament Discussion

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
Written for International News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—Government officials having to do with the arrangements for the armament conference now but ten days away were obviously perturbed and nettled today at the increasing criticism being voiced in congress and in the press against the "secrecy aspect" of the conference.

Newspaper correspondents who attempted to gain a definite intimation today of just how "closed" or how "open" the conference is likely to be, met with the official assertion that the press and public generally would be "pleasantly surprised" by the amount of openness in the forthcoming conference. No intimation was given as to the nature of the "surprise" in store.

The American delegation, it was stated by one of its members, is prepared to urge upon the conference the "maximum amount of publicity consistent with the efficient working of the conference."

It would be obviously impossible, officials stated, for the conference to be entirely open. Not only are the members of the American delegation individually opposed to this, but they believe that the visiting powers would not give their assent to any such arrangement.

FLOOD DEAD HELD AT 36

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 4.—The number of missing as the result of the Britannia Beach cloudburst disaster Friday night remains at thirty-six today. All are believed to be dead. Every stick of wreckage will be removed to make sure no bodies are lying underneath. Only fourteen bodies have been recovered so far. The others are believed to have been washed into Howe sound. The wall of water, estimated at seventy feet high, which swept down from the mountainside and partially destroyed the mining village, did damage amounting to several millions of dollars.

Great Reduction in Freight Rates Given by Southern Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—Concurrence of railway carriers east of the Mississippi river and Chicago in the most sweeping reduction of railroad rates since the general increase granted carriers in August, 1920, was awaited today by the Southern Pacific railroad, which announced a slash ranging from 20 to 25 per cent.

Reductions from points west of Chicago and the Mississippi river will become effective as soon as the tariffs can be published with the exception of certain rates established to meet canal competition on which the Interstate Commerce commission must waive the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce act before going into effect.

In announcing the cut the Southern Pacific company declared the reductions have particular significance at this time "as they indicate the policy of the roads to reduce freight rates as well as wages where the reductions can be made in the public interest."

The new rates included hundreds of articles moving both east and west and range from drygoods to iron and steel and from lumber to canned goods.

SAYS JAPAN WILL HELP

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Japan is not seeking conquest and she feels that she has advanced far enough among modern nations to begin helping backward countries, according to views expressed by Baron Shidehara, Japanese ambassador to the United States, in a letter on the armament conference to "The Outlook," which will appear in the November 2 issue.

CLAIMS ARE PROHIBITED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—Former officials and employes of the government would be prohibited from prosecuting claims against the United States which arose during their respective terms of service, under the terms of a bill reported favorably to the house by the house judiciary committee. Severe penalties are proposed for violations.

Mr. J. A. Daley, President.
The Federal Grocery Co. Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir:

We tried out the sample of Pancake Flour sent out and found it to have a very satisfactory flavor.

We gave half of it to a customer who buys Pancake Flour regularly. Today her husband told me they liked it very much but he was afraid they could not afford to buy it very often as the day after they used it his wife presented him with twins.

We should have the strength of it slightly weakened.

DEBTS DUE AMERICA MAY BE CAUSE OF MANY DISPUTES

Creation of Commission to Take Care of Matter Is Proposed in Congress

By J. E. JONES
Special to The Glendale Evening News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—The House of Representatives has passed a bill for the creation of a commission, headed by the secretary of the treasury, with full authority to deal with the war debts of foreign nations to the United States, and amounting to $10,000,000,000. While the process of lending our billions to Europe was so simple that the public knew little about it at the time, it turns out that the process of making collections is most difficult. One Congressman explained to his colleagues that "in the debts now due the United States there probably lies the germ of more difficulties, dissensions, differences and irritation for the future than anything that has ever arisen in the history of the country. . . . There is but one way that this indebtedness can ultimately be collected, unless the nation voluntarily pays it, and that is by war." This pessimistic view of the situation was met by a rejoinder that we should not attempt to "drive hard bargains, or take any step likely to throw suspicion or mistrust on friendly nations soon to participate in the conference for limitation of armament." The Congress has been many months attempting to set up the machinery for collecting Europe's I. O. U. souvenirs.

White Man's Burden

On the eve of the Armament Conference one hears strangely little about war and its effects upon the human race, but there is no end of talk about taxes, and the constantly increasing cost of armaments. The United States assumes that it can furnish men enough to whip any enemy; and possibly Great Britain has similar notions. Japan apparently might try it, too! But no one talks about the blood and slaughter of it all. The question of costs seems the only thing that is to be considered. Taxes, apparently, have become "the white man's burden."

War Chiefs Conspicuous

The ships are coming into port and it is noticeable that the war chiefs of the world are landing and hastening on to Washington, for the purpose of engaging in the affairs of the armament conference. Quite generily these heroes of the recent war are regarded as foes of the limitation of armament, though many of them no doubt possess friendly points of view. Nevertheless they are the visitors who are toasted at big dinners and applauded by those who are sitting on the picket lines watching "international democracy" confiscate war-making machinery.

Political Machine Runs Hard

More than thirty senators signed a "round-robin" in which they agreed to remain in the Senate day and night to force through the tax bill. These senators were all Republicans who had become weary of the prolonged fight on the bill. The self-starter on the senate machine seems to be rather unreliable, and most of the difficulty appears to be due to the fact that President Harding refuses to use the hand-crank which his predecessor, Mr. Wilson, thought was the proper device. Senators who counted on "pressure" from the administration to force through their party measures are discouraged by the persistence with which President Harding keeps his "hands off," thereby clinging to his belief that the president should not "run Congress."

The Seck Bank

The Postmaster-General is urging higher rates of interest for postal savings bank deposits, in the hope that he may call greater sums from hiding in cracked sugar bowls, chests and other retreats known as "the sock bank."

Farmers' Markets

The prejudices of city-dwellers who are so surrounded by monopolies—and fears of others, that they look upon all forms of co-operative marketing as inimical to the peace and prosperity of the country, has retarded the progress of plans of the farmers to tear themselves loose from the clutches of the grain and livestock centers. But Congress is taking a broad view of the question, and the result up to date is the passage through the House of the Volstead-Capper bill for co-operative marketing. In view of the organization of the Senate by the "agricultural bloc" the bill is likely to meet with success in that body.

COAL MINERS MAY STRIKE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 4.—Strike of coal miners in protest against the anti-unionization injunction handed down by Judge Anderson in the federal court here appeared as a possibility. Such a step, although "not contemplated" by international officials of the United Mine Workers, may be taken by the "men themselves," it was learned. Miners of Knox county, Ind., are reported preparing for strike and meetings of mine workers in other sections are being held with a view to taking similar steps, it is understood.

S. S. Beran Tells Pulling Power of Evening News Ads

S. S. Beran, 305 South Brand boulevard, says he had quite a surprise party when recently five persons entered the office and began to inquire about building. One of the number came with the intention of really building, says Mr. Beran, but before the party left all five signed up for houses. The next night one of the number came back with four others who looked over the plans and contracted for houses, stated Mr. Beran.

"The five who signed up first," said Mr. Beran, "had read one of my ads in The Glendale Evening News, and they came to look over the plans of our special type of homes we are now building. From October 12 to November 2 we have contracted to build nineteen of these special four-room houses, and five of our special design five-room residences.

"We are now building four of these special type homes in Edendale for Dr. Marshall Ketchum of Los Angeles. R. C. Plume of the Monarch Auto Supply company, 121 South Brand boulevard, will have a modern five-room dwelling at 322 Burchett street built by us and work will start at once.

"Other building activities of our firm are nine dwellings in a court in Hollywood for W. T. Monroe who is also having a five-room home constructed in the rear of the court; a modern four-room house for A. S. Formore, 728 Columbus avenue; a special type five-room home for Frank W. Parr at 1850 South Brand boulevard, which is ready for inspection; a four-room home for Levi W. Dickerson in Pinewood Terrace; a four-room dwelling for Helen C. Rice at 3643 Revere avenue in the Angelus Park tract; and six four-room and three five-room dwellings in Hollywood for the Newhall Investment company, which is considering building three more."

When a woman tries to capture a wealthy husband she evidently believes that his means will justify her ends.

Auto Lights Aid in Selling Local Property

A client from Los Angeles, four auto lights, a piece of property in Glendale, and the realty transaction took place, says A. J. Lucas, 309 South Brand boulevard. The party came out to see the property about 9 o'clock at night and auto lights were trained on the lot while the clients looked it over. The property looked good enough to them by auto light so the deal was closed, says Mr. Lucas, and since seeing the purchase in daylight the clients are even better satisfied, he says.

Proposes to Erect Brewery Here; What? Yes, But Stay Calm!

Glendale is to have a brewery!

It will be located on San Fernando Road, cost $10,000 and be in operation probably in a few months.

Now don't get excited.

This brewery will concoct, brew and bottle delicious salad dressing, mustard sauce and mayonnaise.

"One job at a time is enough," said C. S. Goodyer, owner of the Goodyer Delicatessen and Lunch Room, at 131 South Central avenue, this morning. "But as soon as I get out of here I am going to start raising the sod, or breaking ground, for my new factory. It will be a model place and modernly equipped from the ground up.

"We have a wonderful business here for a little place. There seem to be plenty of buyers around with a thousand or two, but none with real money. I want cash and most of them want to make payments."

Latest Victor Records at Glendale Music Co.

Even the seemngly impossible seems easy to the wonderful little throat of Amelita Galli-Curci. If you had ever even thought that Chopin's difficult "Minute Waltz" (Messagero Ambrose, Love's Messenger), to interpret which adequately on the piano requires all the individual intelligence of ten trained fingers, could possibly be arranged for the voice, you would have wondered who should dare attempt it. Yet here it is among the list of new Victor records for November, arranged for the voice with elaborate cunning, sung brilliantly, joyously, triumphantly by Galli-Curci. The long opening trill, the flying runs, the divinely beautiful middle theme with its breath catching quadruplet, all and more are here. Bell notes tingle among staccato flute tones, and at the close she takes an extraordinary high E natural, clear, loud, faithful to pitch, astonishing in its unassailable perfection.

John McCormack adds to his popular success this month a new Victor record that will delight his admirers in every quarter of the world. "Little Town in the Ould Country Down" is a ditty that enchant those who appreciate the subtle perfection of his songs in Irish style. At the climax of the record the voice lifts a sudden octave into a sweet high, clearly sustained headtone.

For the new November Victor Records the Flonzaley quartet presents an impetuous movement from one of Schumann's too little known string classics—"Quartet in A Major, Assai Agitate." In tone, tempo, attack, everything that musicians recognize, it is perfection itself—a record that represents the superlative in artistry.

A complete line of all these artists' records is kept by the Glendale Music company, 109 North Brand boulevard.

John Farner, on Leave From Navy, Is Visitor

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Farner of 223 North Adams street were agreeably surprised a few days ago by the sudden appearance of their son, John Farner, who is enjoying a brief leave of absence from his duties in the United States navy. He will return within a few days to his ship at San Pedro, where it is anchored with a number of other craft of the Pacific fleet.

Mr. Farner is well known among the younger set of Glendale, having been a former local high school student and also having resided here for the past nine years. He is now serving in his second enlistment, his first "hitch" having taken place during the war, when he was a member of Mine Sweeping Division No. 2 of the American navy. Most of his initial enlistment was spent in foreign waters and was replete with excitement and thrills, his crew experiencing dangerously narrow escapes on numerous occasions while engaged in the extremely ticklish task of sweeping enemy mines.

After remaining in civilian life for a term of fourteen months, during which time he was employed by a local tailoring establishment, he again answered his country's call by signing up for a two-year enlistment in the Pacific fleet. He was one of the several hundred native sons who were assigned to the recently completed U. S. S. California, which had not been commissioned into the service at the time he "signed the dotted line."

Colorado P.-T. A. to Entertain for Fathers

The regular meeting of the Colorado Parent-Teacher association was held yesterday afternoon at the school building. This was preceded by a social hour, during which refreshments were served. At the business meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. E. S. McKee, president, plans were discussed for "fathers'" night, which will be held the first Thursday in December. The part the children of the school will take in the Armistice Day parade was also discussed. Two delightful vocal solos were given by Mrs. Louis Scharnikow. There were about fifty members present.

Proposed High School Site Under Discussion

A short meeting of the Southern Glendale Improvement club, of which Stuart M. Street is president, was held last night in the branch library building on South Brand boulevard, at which representatives from the Glendale Foothill Improvement association, Oak Street Improvement association and Glendale Avenue Improvement association were present and spoke relative to the proposed high school site.

Thus far the Southern Glendale Improvement club, it is stated, has not taken sides in regard to the high school site. A special meeting has been called for next Monday night, November 7, at which representatives of these organizations may have a representative number of the members of the organization present to present their side of the question.

That wife who tho't they'd have a change
And try some other food,
Saw husband looking down his nose,
As tho' not in good mood.
She quickly noticed something wrong,
And said, "Why can't you eat?"
He looked straight at his wife and said:
"Have you no MILO WHEAT?"

CHORUS:
For all the folks who eat this food,
I'm sure you will hear say
For strength and health and every ill
It's best we know today.
We're living now on MILO WHEAT
Our bank account will grow,
For we can have a good square meal
For three cents now, you know.

And then she saw her baby boy
Had pushed his plate aside,
She tho't she would make him eat it,
But he sat there and cried.
Her daughter then looked up and said
I surely have enough,
For after eating MILO WHEAT
I cannot go this stuff.

"I have lived in Southern California all my life, and for the past fifteen years have lived in Glendale and have never seen anything like this city for growth.

"When we first purchased property on West Colorado that part of Glendale was practically open; one could see all the traffic on South Brand boulevard; but now, it is built up and still growing. Colorado street, I think, will soon be one of the big business streets of Glendale."

Three houses for Doner-Hemenway & Burn on Concord and Doran streets, two of which will be completed at an early date; a four-room dwelling and garage for Samuel Davis at 620 Alexander street; a four-room bungalow for Thomas P. Rowe, 715 East Elk avenue; a ten-room duplex house for Dan Tracy at 340 North Jackson street; a paint shop addition at 120 South Maryland avenue for Mrs. Cora J.
